Many Deer—No Wolves
A Little Politics
Can't Worry Wall Street
Rich and Getting Richer

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

FARMERS in Pennsylvania complain of wild deer eating their crops. Twenty years ago there were only a thousand deer in the state, now there are a million.

• • •

THERE are no wolves in Pennsylvania. Deer help and warn each other, wolves don't help each other. Read Kropotkine's "Mutual Aid, A Factor in Evolution."

• • •

GOVERNOR SMITH, who understands politics, and Mr. Raskob, master of finance and organization, talked in New York for an hour yesterday about campaign policies.

• • •

HERBERT HOOVER is on his way east to the capital, perfectly satisfied, his friends say, with conditions in the farm belt. Republicans believe that what they call "Governor Smith's indefiniteness" on the farm question will keep farmers in the Republican ranks.

• • •

NEWSPAPERS of Texas comment bitterly on Governor Smith's prohibition statement. The suggestion that state governments should "go into the liquor business" seems particularly offensive.

• • •

AUGUST HECKSHER of New York, on the other hand, public spirited citizen, lifelong Republican, with many millions of dollars, will vote for Smith. He likes his prohibition ideas.

• • •

They sent stocks booming again yesterday, bought and sold 3,000,000 in the first four hours, nearly 4,000,000 shares all together.

• • •

IT was a sad day for bears. But then almost any day is sad for those foolish to go short in this country.

• • •

THOSE who realize that the dollar now is worth 69 cents compared with 1914, while our properties are worth a great deal more than they were then in real dollars, know that the prosperity boom is just starting.

Selling stocks isn't the only cheerful business. Industrial production and consumption are establishing new high records in many industries, according to the Department of Commerce. The first half of 1927 establishe' a new high record. The first half of 1928 beats it.

• • •

As a nation we are richer than ever, and getting richer all the time.

• • •

IN Japan, as regards religion, you may be anything you like. Shintoist, Buddhist, Confucian, Christian—of any brand—but you must not meddle with the Mikado.

• • •

AIJIRO ONISNI, "head of the family of living gods and goddesses," is locked up with 178 followers. Descending from the gods, they say they ought to rule the country. Wise Japan, interfering only when necessary.

• • •

LADDIE SHARP, English girl, only 17, swam the channel yesterday in 15 hours 5 minutes.

A wonderful achievement, although she didn't win $5,000 offered to any woman breaking Gertrude Ederle's record, 14 hours 31 minutes.

Being double-jointed, Miss Laddie can use the "double scissors kick stroke," and does 25 strokes per minute.

Such wonderful energy should be devoted to something more important than swimming the channel.

• • •

THE airplane entered high finance yesterday with news that Lindbergh was flying from California to Chicago with John J. Mitchell, Jr., as passenger. The Illinois Merchants' Trust Co. and Continental National Bank & Trust Co. plan a billion-dollar merger. The flight was part of the deal.

It is pleasing to realize that Lindbergh piloting the ship interests Americans even more than "a billion dollars."

SOME things you can do, some things you can't. Kemal Pasha, boss of Turkey, tells Turks to wear real hats instead of a fez. They do it.

He offers his will in place of direct orders from Mohammed and Allah as expressed in the Koran. The Turks stand that. Now he abolishes Turkish

COLUMBUS SALESMAN PLUNGES TO HIS DEATH

Pittsburgh, Aug. 25—Believed to have lost his balance as he sat on the window ledge in his tenth floor room in a local hotel, David D. Thompson, 65, a salesman of Columbus, O., plunged to his death in the street here early today.

A taxicab driver, who heard the body fall, notified police. Thompson was employed by the Mason Fibre Co., Chicago.

One Killed, Three Injured In Crash

AUTO CRASHES INTO BIG TREE NEAR ASHLEY

Hope Is Held for Recovery of One; Other Two Dismissed

ALL FROM MANSFIELD

William Arnold Dies Shortly After Accident; Fail To See Signs

William Arnold, 23, of 150 East Third st., Mansfield, is dead, and Earl Hurd, 55, Hill st., Mansfield, is in Jane Case hospital, Delaware, suffering from a fractured skull, as the result of an automobile accident three miles north of Ashley about 1 o'clock this morning. Arnold died a few minutes after the accident, from a fractured skull. Hope is held out for the recovery of Hurd who regained consciousness shortly before noon today.

Roy Hartman and Cletus Brune, both of Mansfield, other occupants of the car, escaped with minor bruises. Ages of the young men range between 20 and 23 years.

Crashes Into Tree

The accident occurred at an abrupt turn in the road on state highway, No. 42, as the party was returning to Mansfield from Columbus. The driver of the car, Roy Hartman, failed to note the road signs and the machine crashed into a large tree at the end of the stretch. Both Arnold and Hurd, who were riding in the rumble seat of the car, were thrown out, landing on their heads.

The injured men were removed to the hospital in the Clevenger ambulance, Delaware. Hartman sustained an injury to one of his shoulders and Brune was injured in the back. Both were dismissed from the hospital today.

"HIP-TAPPING" RAID STAGED BY AGENTS

Persons Leaving French Liner Searched by Customs Officials

New York, Aug. 25—For the second time within a week customs agents staged a spectacular "hip-tapping" raid on the French line pier early today.

Friends who had just bid goodbye to passengers on the liner France were stopped at the exit of the pier as they departed for their homes. Seven agents, four of them negroes, slapped the hip pockets of the men and searched the handbags of the women. The agents made a similar drive when the liner Paris sailed a week ago. At that time they obtained 14 bottles of liquor, it was said, but today they found no intoxicants.

DOCTOR SLAIN, GIRL WOUNDED IN HOLDUP

Youth Who Shot Couple So Weak He Could Hardly Pull Trigger

Chicago, Aug. 25—Dr. Julian M. Sinke, 41, married and the father of two children, was shot and fatally wounded early today as he sat in his automobile with Miss Rose Steele, 28, a patient of the physician. Dr. Sinke died on the way to a hospital.

The same bullet that passed through the body of Dr. Sinke wounded Miss Steele. She is in a serious condition and may not live.

An 18-year-old immigrant boy, so anaemic and weak he had to use both hands to pull the trigger, did the shooting. He fired when the doctor resisted his attempts at robbery.

TRIO FORCED DOWN ON ATTEMPTED HOP

Gasoline Tank Leaks After Plane Encounters Trouble Getting in Air

Paris, Aug. 25—Capt. Louis Goudouret, French ace, who hopped off with two companions at 6:07 o'clock this morning for a transatlantic flight to New York, returned to Le Bourget field a short time later, landing safely.

Goudouret made an unsatisfactory take off, running the entire length of the field before the plane rose into the air. The machine ran along the ground for about a mile and a quarter before the plane began to ascend. The fliers were unable to get into the air until they had emptied many gallons of their fuel. When the machine did leave the ground it barely cleared the trees on the edge of the field.

Goudouret made a turn and then brought the plane back to the field. It landed so heavily that both tires upon the landing wheels burst.

Pilot Goudouret was in an angry mood when he climbed from the cockpit.

"The gasoline tank leaked like a sieve," he exclaiemd. "We got off the ground with the greatest difficulty, missing the roof of the hangars by only a few feet. It was then that we discovered the leak."

THOUSANDS OUT TO GREET GOV. SMITH

Nominee in New Jersey To Review State's National Guard Troops

Seagirt, N. J., Aug. 25—New Jersey Democrats turned out by the thousands today to acclaim Gov. Al. Smith, presidential candidate who came here to review national guard troops.

This marked the first public appearance of Smith since he formally accepted the presidential nomination and the Democratic hosts of New Jersey were prepared to make the most of it.

Hours before the formal review was to take place, all roads leading to Seagirt were jammed with automobiles and busses bringing men, women and children from all parts of the state to pay homage to the Democratic standard bearer.

Special trains from Jersey City, Newark and other New Jersey cities began to arrive shortly before noon, bringing additional thousands to what is expected to be the greatest Democratic rally in the history of New Jersey.

FIRE AT NEWARK

Blaze Sweeps Cloak and Suit Department of Store

Newark, Aug. 25—Fire department officials today were investigating origin of the spectacular blaze here last night which swept the cloak and suit department of the Meyer & Lindorf dry goods store. Damage was estimated at $60,000.

It was believed that an electric iron, left connected after the store had closed, may have been responsible for the fire.

THREE SMOKE VICTIMS

New York, Aug. 25—Frank Harper, 60, a negro, his wife, Nannie, and his niece, Emily Little, died two hours after being overcome by smoke at a fire in Brooklyn early today. Firemen and police used 21 pints of oxygen in a vain effort to revive the victims. The trio lived at 1005 Ludlow st., West Philadelphia.

FLIER LANDS, SAYS AIRPORT IS TOO SMALL

Declares Local Tract Not Adequate for Planes of Larger Type

FIRST TO USE FIELD

Cleveland Pilot Brings Freight and Three Passengers to Marion

"The first thing Marion should do in the way of developing its airport is to buy additional ground," was the statement made yesterday by E. E. Basham, of Cleveland, who piloted the Stinson-Detroiter airplane that brought the first freight shipment to the new municipal airport here.

Ba1Basham commented on the new flying field after he had successfully landed his plane here about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. He flew here from Cleveland with a freight shipment for O. H. Swanson, local radio dealer. The Stinson-Detroiter was the first plane to land at the new airport.

Too Small, He Says

The field, Basham said, is too small for large planes. The ship flown here yesterday was a five-passenger cabin plane. In taking off for the return trip to Cleveland, Basham's plane barely cleared the fence on the southwest boundary, according to Swanson.

Ray Johnson, manager of the radio department of the Erner Electric Co., of Cleveland, Howard Stafford of the same firm, and Swanson accompanied Basham on the trip from Cleveland to Marion. The flight was made in slightly less than an hour.

Agrees with McKee

Basham's opinion regarding the need for enlarging the Marion field coincides with the statement made by Lieutenant Frank M. McKee, commander of Norton field, Columbus, following an inspection of the local site about two weeks ago.

As a result of McKee's report, a movement is now under way to purchase an additional 140 acres of land on which the city has an option.

McKee said that while the tract of 104 acres, purchase of which has been authorized by city council, is adequate for immediate needs, it will not be large enough to accommodate the large tri-motor commercial and passenger planes when they begin placing Marion on their lists as a stopping point.

OLD-TIME MARION BALL PLAYER DIES

John "Dummy" Rynn Drops Dead at N. Greenwood st. Home

John Rynn, 70, a deaf-mute, widely-known as one of Marion's greatest baseball players in the '80's and '90's, dropped dead at 8:30 o'clock last night at his home, 257 North Greenwood st. Heart trouble is believed by Coroner B. D. Osborn to have been the cause of death. He had apparently been in good health.

John "Dummy" Rynn first played with the old Marion Mohawks and later was a star on the old Marion Stars. Rynn and "Reddy" Mack, another old Marion resident, formed the battery for the Stars. Rynn was as good behind the bat as he was in the pitcher's box. When he caught he wore only a common leather driving glove on his left hand and a canvas glove with the fingers cut out on his right.

"Dummy" played with Columbus in the American association for a short time and then brought his league career to a close as first baseman on the Minneapolis Millers of the American association.

Returning to Marion he played first base on the Marion baseball club here when "Bobby" Quinn, now president of the Boston Americans, was catching on the team. He was one of the last players not to use a baseball glove. He played first base barehanded.

Mr. Rynn was the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Rynn, natives of Ireland. He was single, residing with his sister, Miss Annie Ryan, who is also a deaf-mute.

Funeral arrangements have not been made.

CIRCUS RECRUIT

Marion Girl Found in Toledo After "Joining" 101 Ranch

THAT the circus still holds a lure for the youth of today was shown last night when Irene Slob, 12, of 1014 North Main st. hid herself in the canvas of the "big top" and ran away with the Miller 101 Ranch wild west show.

Her disappearance was reported to local police and she was discovered early this morning in Toledo, where the show is being staged today. She is being held there for L. L. Aller, county probation officer, who will journey to that city this afternoon to bring her home.

HARRY SILVER TO HEAD G. O. P. FALL CAMPAIGN

Arthur A. Nixon of Dayton Selected as Successor to Chairman Warner

ORGANIZATION PERFECTED

Marion Man Credited with Putting Harmony Plan in Effect

Columbus, Aug. 25—Harry D. Silver, Eaton, today was preparing plans for the Republican state campaign this fall. Silver was chosen manager of the G. O. P. campaign to be waged on behalf of that party's state ticket. Appointment of Silver and the selection of Arthur A. Nixon, Dayton, as chairman of the Republican state central committee featured a conference here late yesterday of Republican state leaders, nominees for state offices and members of the newly-elected state central committee.

The state central committee perfected an organization by designating Nixon as chairman, Mrs. Louise Ogden Deree, Ashland vice chairman, and William H. Duffy, Columbus, secretary-treasurer. The committee decreed that it would serve, also, as the state executive committee, with its own officers filling similar positions on the latter committee.

Silver was placed at the head of a campaign committee which includes Mrs. Wilma Sinclair Levan, Steubenville, former national committeewoman, and Mrs. Hugh Clark, Steubenville, national committeewoman, who will aid Silver in directing campaign activities; Carmi A. Thompson, Cleveland, who will serve as treasurer; William Thompson, Youngstown, secretary, and Louis H. Brush, Salem, chairman of the finance committee.

Drown for Hoover

Silver was authorized to select, from time to time, such additional members of the campaign committee as he

SUPPLY OF MEDICAL ALCOHOL IS SOUGHT

Byrd's Anarctic Expedition Slated To Sail from New York Today

New York, Aug. 25—Hasty efforts to assemble 2,000 gallons of pure grain alcohol and several hundred gallons of choice liquors including champagne as part of the medicinal supplies of Commander Byrd's anarctic expedition were being made today as the City of New York, base ship of the expedition, prepared to sail at noon.

The liquors were ordered by Dr. Francis Coman of Johns Hopkins university, chief medical officer of the expedition. Commander Byrd was making frantic efforts to round up the liquors in time to load them on the City of New York and was being aided in his task by Prohibition Administrator Maurice Campbell.

The City of New York, loaded with 200 tons of supplies and carrying 31 members of the expedition was scheduled to sail at noon on the 9,200 mile trip to Dunedin, New Zealand. A reception will be held aboard the vessel before sailing and city officials and several of the backers of the exploration party will travel down the bay with the steamer. They will be returned on the city tug Macom when the New York strikes the open sea.

Begin Inquiries In Subway Crash

FOURTEEN DEAD, AND 95 HURT IN NEW YORK

Fear Times Square Tragedy Death List Will Grow During Day

BLAME DEFECTIVE SWITCH

Accident Occurs During Rush Hour; Switchman Charged with Homicide

New York, Aug. 25—Fourteen persons were killed and 95 injured, 47 seriously, in the disastrous subway wreck at Times Square late yesterday, a check-up of hospitals and the morgue revealed today. In the transit commission's original report, 17 were reported dead. It was feared that the death list would be increased during the day.

Normal service on the west side line was restored this morning after more than 500 men, working all night, removed the debris of Manhattan's most frightful subway wreck from the tunnel. The debris loaded on flat cars included a few severed fingers, personal effects of the victims and chunks of the heavy concrete supporting wall which was broken in two at 5:00 o'clock when struck by the ninth car of a southbound 10-car Brooklyn express.

W. E. Baldwin, switchman in the Times Square station, was arrested early today on a charge of homicide. It is charged that he ordered Motorman McCormack to start the train after the damaged switch which caused the wreck was declared to have been repaired.

Three Probes Begun

Meanwhile three investigations into the wreck were begun. One was conducted by the Interborough Rapid Transit Co. among its employes, another by Mayor James J. Walker and a special committee and a third by the transit commission. The investigations were hampered by clashes between Mayor Walker and the police on one hand, and Interborough officials on the other. Police charged that the Interborough officials refused to produce employes needed as witnesses and Mayor Walker ordered that Frank Hedley, president of the company, be arrested. This order was revoked, however, when Hedley promised to produce the employes wanted.

Police Commissioner Warren charged today that subway employes at the Times Square station knew that the damaged switch which caused the wreck was defective. The train was held at the station for five minutes while repairmen worked at the switch.

TWO ARE INJURED IN TRAFFIC CRASH

One Machine Almost Demolished in Accident on N. Main st.

Two persons suffered minor injuries last night when a Chrysler sedan, driven by K. D. Hochstetter, 288 Park blvd., and a Packard sedan, operated by Art Cheney, Mt. Vernon-av, collided at the corner of North Main and Patten sts.

The injured are Miss Mary Miller, North State and Patten sts., who received cuts about the head and left arm from flying glass, and Robert Hochstetter, 17, son of the driver of the Chrysler. Two other occupants of the Chrysler escaped injury as did the four youths who were riding with Cheney.

Both cars were going south on Main st. when the accident occurred. Hochstetter, in front of Cheney, attempting to make a left hand turn at Patten, was struck by the Packard and crowded into the curb, striking a large boulder and a tree, witnesses state. Hochstetter told police that he held out his hand before making the turn.

The Chrysler was almost demolished while the front end of the Packard was crushed and an axle broken.

MARION MAN AGAIN OVERCOME BY HEAT

Virgil Altenberger, Ice Deliveryman, Prostrated Second Time in Two Weeks

Although the thermometer recorded only at 72-degree high yesterday, Virgil Altenberger, 34, was prostrated from heat and exhaustion while delivering ice at the L. M. Elkenbary residence, 1085 East Church st.

Mr. Altenberger had not fully recovered from a heat prostration two weeks ago and it is believed his weakened condition was largely responsible for his collapse. He was removed from the Elkenbary home to his home, 310 Park blvd., in the W. G. Boyd ambulance. He became ill at about 3:30 o'clock.

Mr. Altenberger's condition, which is not regarded as serious, was reported improved today.

Showers yesterday morning, during which .15 of an inch of rain fell, brought the temperature to the 72-degree mark. Last night the mercury dropped to 54 degrees but was on the rise again today. A 72-degree temperature was recorded at noon.

Cloudy weather is predicted for tonight and Sunday with slowly rising temperature.

A year ago yesterday the thermometer showed a 70-degree high and 45-degree low.

EXPECT 12 NATIONS TO SIGN U. S. PACT

Great Britain and Germany Represented by Cushenden, Stresemann

Paris, Aug. 25—Representatives of a dozen powers are expected here today and tomorrow to sign the treaty to outlaw war. Included among the representatives are Lord Cushenden, of Great Britain, and Foreign Secretary Gustave Stresemann, of Germany.

The gathering here on Monday will be the greatest since the Versailles peace parley nine years ago.

Frank B. Kellogg, American secretary of state, who arrived yesterday with Premier Mackenzie King, of Canada, is much gratified over the cordial welcome given the treaty which will probably bear his name. He said he believed it would mark a new era in world affairs and would be a most important step in the preservation of the world's peace.

AUDITOR SETS ESTIMATE FOR 1929 EXPENSES

DEBT FUND CUT

Bond Retirement Account Much Lower; General Fund Shows Increase

Marion county's budget for the year 1929 will call for an income of $380,000, according to Earl E. Thomas, county auditor, who has practically completed work on the budget for the coming year. This sum will be required to operate the various county departments during the year.

Of the total amount $200,000 will be raised by the regular tax levy and approximately $180,000 will come from the two-mill road levy voted by the people.

Forty thousand dollars will go into the fund for retiring county bonds, according to Thomas. The general fund will require $100,000 for the year.

Total for 1928

The budget for 1928 called for $386,577.81, the auditor said today in comparing figures for this year and the coming year. The figure for next year represents a cut of $6,577.81 in the budget. The 1928 budget was effected approximately $50,000 under the figure for 1927, according to Thomas.

The 1928 budget, drawn a year ago, listed $115,792.70 for the general fund. The figure for the general fund for 1929 represents an increase of $44,207.30 but the budget total is held below the mark for 1928 by a decrease of $50,141.27 in the amount required for the bond retirement fund.

The $50,000 cut in the general fund for 1928 was made possible by balances on hand at the beginning of the present year of approximately $70,000. Anticipating this balance Auditor Thomas was able to make the cut when the 1928 budget was drawn several months before the end of 1927. This year, however, there will be no large balance on hand to start with in 1929. This fact necessitated the boost in the amount required for the general fund.

Reasons for Changes

The increase in the amount required for the general fund is approximately $6,000 lower than the decrease in the amount required for the bond retirement fund. The result is that the 1929 budget is slightly more than $50,000 lower than the 1928 budget and is approximately $50,000 below the 1927 mark.

The cut in the bond retirement fund for 1929 was made possible by the sale of $46,158 worth of county bonds to the Industrial Commission of Ohio. These bonds were part of the $75,000 worth of county road, ditch and bridge bonds which had been originally held by the trustees of the county sinking fund, or bond retirement fund. The bonds were purchased by the sinking fund trustees with accumulated funds, but to have held them longer, Auditor Thomas pointed out, would have meant an additional levy of approximately $50,000 on the taxpayers of the county for next year.

More Than 250 Marion Youngsters Learn Two Numbers At Rehearsal

EVEN the circus parade yesterday morning and the "big show" in the afternoon were but faintly recalled today by the fortunate youngsters who participated in the first rehearsal of The Marion Star Fife band this morning at the Legion Depot, South High st.

More than 250 youngsters, ranging in age from 6 to 17 and in appearance from overalls to Sunday best, were on enrollment headquarters this morning when W. K. Baxter of New York city arrived here to direct what will no doubt "go down in history" as the first official rehearsal of Marion's youngest and largest band.

For the benefit of these sad little youngsters whose longing eyes followed the band members to their hall and who weren't just sure how the happy musicians had acquired their new and envied dignity—[illegible]—here's how.

The requirements are a youngster, tall or short, fat or skinny, blond or brunette—just anyone who styles himself a youngster and has a desire to learn to play one 25 cents with which to purchase himself a fife at either the Ackerman music store, Fourth Main st., or Dexter music store, North Main st.

After rehearsal this morning Mr. Baxter announced that there would be just one more week in which to enroll, that band membership would be closed by 10 o'clock next Saturday morning, when the second rehearsal will be held in connection with a review of what was learned today.

The unusual notice displayed by the Marion band this morning attracted Director Baxter to submit the usual form forms sent to the members. The inquiries are asked were [illegible] the group or "showing" applied and one of very important [illegible] the fife

Lists of Party Central Committees Announced for County

NAMES RECORDED BY BOARD OF ELECTIONS

Democratic and Republican Organization Members Chosen by Voters

TABULATION MADE

Tie Votes and Other Complications To Be Ironed Out at Meetings

A complete list of all Republican and Democratic county central committee members from the various precincts of Marion county has been assembled by clerks at the county board of elections office. The list was prepared during the official check of votes cast in the county at the primary election on Tuesday, Aug. 14.

The personnel of the two central committees will not be settled until after the first meetings of the committees. In some cases two or more candidates have tied for the right to represent their precincts. In other cases the committee member named, is not a voter in the precinct from which he was elected. Problems of this nature will be ironed out by the committees when they meet to organize for the fall campaign. In some instances a party representation has been named as committee member from more than one district.

A meeting of the Republican central committee has been called for 7:30 o'clock tonight by Chairman Bert J. Shelton. The meeting is to be held in the common pleas court room in the courthouse. Shelton will preside at the meeting until a chairman for the next year is named.

The Democratic committee is expected to meet early next week, according to Hector S. Young, chairman. The date has not been set.

ONE MORE SURPRISE

"What next!" exclaimed Mrs. Charles Levine, wife of the first transatlantic air passenger, when she beheld an auction sale sign on the Levine home at Belle Harbor, N. Y. Meanwhile Mr. Levine is in Paris following a reception by the Royal Automobile Club in Milan.

YANKS GET RYAN

Veteran Added To Crippled Hurling Staff of Champs

New York, Aug. 25—Bill (Rosy) Ryan, purchased from Toledo in the American Association, was to join the crippled hurling staff of the New York Yankees this afternoon. Ryan's chief claim to fame is that he once made Babe Ruth look foolish in a world's series game between the Giants and the Yanks. With two strikes on the Babe, he deliberately pitched the ball into the dirt in front of the plate and the eager Ruth struck at it.

Girls may smoke because they think it smart. That's the way boys begin.

Why do late hours always manage to slip by a man who is engaged in keeping them?

Nations better beware of "manifest destiny" nonsense when it leads to war.

Morrow County School Case is Decided in Favor of Board

PROPERTY OWNERS' PETITION REJECTED

Court Refuses To Order Transfer from Quakerdom School District

ACTION DISMISSED

County Board of Education's Plans Sustained by Judge's Ruling

Mt. Gilead, Aug. 25—In a court order, Common Pleas Judge W. P. Vaughan has refused a writ of mandamus petitioned for by Elisabeth I. Pennett and others in an action against R. F. Mosher and others as the county board of education.

Judge Vaughan found in favor of the defendants and dismissed the petition at the costs of the plaintiffs and set the appeal bond at $100.

In the petition the plaintiffs sought to have their land transferred from the Quakerdom school district to the Mt. Gilead special school district for school purposes. T. B. Mateer was attorney for the plaintiffs and F. L. Myers represented the county board of education.

Injunctions Dissolved

A finding in favor of the defendants was made in the injunction action of John Hack and others against Wesley Schaff and others. The temporary restraining order was dissolved and the petition dismissed at the costs of the plaintiff and the appeal bond set at $200.

In the acton to quiet title brought by Emma J. McCormack against John Kline and others, judgment for the defendants was made and the temporary restraining order dissolved. The case was dismissed at the costs of the plaintiff and the appeal bond set at $100.

Decision for Commissioners

Judgment for the defendants was made in the suit of Lewis George against Will Turner and others as county commissioners. The injunction was dissolved and petition dismissed at the plaintiffs' costs with exceptions. Leave to amend the answer to conform to the proof was granted.

In the action of Frank H. King against Louis Raymond Russell and others, for foreclosure and appointment of a receiver, judgment for the plaintiff against the defendants, Ralph R. Conrad and Lola Conrad was rendered for the sum of $7,118.98 with interest. Foreclosure was ordered and an order of sale given.

Cognovit judgment for $115.86 formerly rendered in the case of Lydia Piper against Paul Hildebrand and Mary Hildebrand was vacated on motion after finding that the answer of the defendants set forth a defense. Leave to file an answer was granted.

Suit Dismissed

The foreclosure action of Amos J. Jago against Alneda Foster Hershner was dismissed without prejudice at the costs of the plaintiff.

In the action of Don Cover and Lulu Cover against Elizabeth Neal, guardian of Inez Neal, an appeal from the Justice of Peace court of W. M. Kaufman, a motion to strike the bill of exceptions from the file was sustained with exceptions.

ELECTION VALID

Bucyrus Man To Serve on Committee After Moving Out of Precinct

Bucyrus, Aug. 25—After some little argument as to whether Frederick Knodel's election to membership on the Democratic county central committee Aug. 14 in the primaries was valid, due to his moving out of the precinct in which he was elected, Prosecuting Attorney L. H. Kreiter announced Friday that a certificate of election should be issued to him by the board of elections.

Issuance of this certificate, which will be done, R. O. Perrott, clerk of the county board of elections, announced, does not mean, however, that Knodel will be allowed to sit on the central committee unless the new committee is willing for him to do so, as Kreiter held that the committee has the power to appoint new members to succeed those who have resigned or moved out of the precinct in which he was elected.

The possibility of his not being allowed to take his seat is considered remote.

BOY SCOUT MARKERS TO BE PLACED SEPT. 1

More Than 100 Scouts To Take Part in Work in Crawford County

Bucyrus, Aug. 25—A car load of the posts and markers designed to mark the 100 mile section between Mansfield and Delphos on the Lincoln highway arrived in Bucyrus yesterday, and are being distributed in trucks.

Bucyrus is the headquarters for this section which is under the supervision of F. R. Hopley, Ohio counselor for the Lincoln Highway association, and E. J. Songer, secretary of the chamber of commerce.

The work of placing the markers is being done entirely by the boy scouts living along the route, while the posts costing over $100,000 and incidental expenses amounting to another $50,000 are being furnished by the Lincoln Highway association.

Every spot on the transcontinental highway where one of these markers or mile posts is to be placed was marked about six weeks ago by an especially selected group of Boy Scouts who crossed the continent in a motorized replica of the old prairie schooner. Scouts are now digging the holes to place them in so that there will be no delay in dropping the 3,100 mile line in position when the hands of the clock reach 10 o'clock one week from Saturday morning.

More than 100 Boy Scouts, under the direction of S. E. Auck, E. C. Crall and W. G. Talbott, executives of the local troops, will take part in the placing of the markers, Saturday, Sept. 1.

Hopley and Songer made a tour Thursday of the entire 100-mile section from Mansfield to Delphos placing a small post and American flag at the spot where each marker is to be located. Twenty-two will be installed in Crawford county.

The markers are uniform for the entire distance, and are of concrete construction and will stand four feet above the ground. They weigh 325 pounds each and six boy scouts will be at work on each one. On the face of each marker is a small metal relief of Lincoln's head. Below this plaque, between broad bands of red and blue appears the letter "L." On the sides are arrows, curved or straight, to indicate whether the highway bends or proceeds straightaway.

CLUB'S FLOWER SHOW A DECIDED SUCCESS

Wyandot County Group's First Exhibit Draws Crowd of 1,200 People

Upper Sandusky, Aug. 25 — 1200 persons registered at Wyandot county's first flower show which was held in the basement of the Public Library in this city, Thursday and Friday of this week. The show, sponsored by members of the Wyandot Garden club, proved to be an even greater success than was anticipated.

The library basement was transformed into an enchanting sunken flower garden, created from the beautiful flowers contributed by 58 members of the club and their friends. The walls were covered with vines and the floors with artificial grass; and with the use of garden furniture, a bird bath and a beautiful crystal ball, it truly was a gorgeous flower garden. An attractive feature of the garden was a small lilly pond. The scene was made more realistic by the birds, butterflies and the toy animals here and there in the garden.

There was no admission charged, however a free will offering of $30 was received. Eighteen new members were also received into the club, making a total of 94 members in the Wyandot Garden club.

After the close of the show last night, the flowers were distributed among the churches and the Home for the Aged. The Flower Show will now be an annual affair in Wyandot county, it is announced.

NEEDING one more game to be certain of a not less than a tie and two contests to cinch the championship, the Eagles will enter the final round of play next week confident of being one of four teams to play for the city championship.

Last night the league leaders stayed two full games ahead of the Shovels by defeating the Kiwanis, 11 to 3. The Kiwanis nine was looked upon to be one of the main stumbling blocks of the Eagles in view of the 1 to 0 game played earlier in the season.

The Steam Shovel nine stayed in the race by a winning 9 to 3 session in an almost hopeless one as the diggers passed up a golden opportunity when they played the Eagles earlier in the week.

With everything pointing to an Eagle victory, but one league in which the winner has not been picked. The Steam Shovels and C., D. & M. will play off the Industrial title next Thursday night at Lincoln.

Only two of the five scheduled games last night were played. The Marion Stars was given a game by the Baptists while the Yardmen forfeited to the K. of P. The Erie Clerk-Kappa game was called on account of wet diamonds.

Three contests will be played next week in the Commercial league.

Four Clubs Have Chance to Take National League Leadership from St. Louis

Athletics Win Series from Cleveland To Cut Lead of Yankees Down to Three Games; New Yorkers Lose Double-Header to Browns

By LES CONKLIN

NEW YORK, Aug. 25—Four clubs—the Giants, the Cubs, the Reds and the Pirates—are so close to the league-leading St. Louis Cardinals that any one of them may be in first place a week from today. The Cards increased their lead over New York to a game and a half by beating the Phillies yesterday, and the Cubs grabbed third place by taking two games from Boston while the Reds were idle.

The Yankees, leading the Athletics by only three games today, find themselves in a more precarious position than at any time since springtime. The A's, who slumped a bit following their triumphant invasion of the west, have just won four straight from Cleveland.

Yesterday the Yanks were two-timed by the St. Louis Browns, 5 to 2 and 3 to 1. Crowder and Blaeholder outpitched Pipgras and Helmach. The Browns, who didn't beat the Yanks last year almost until the end of the season, have broken even with the champions in 18 contests this year.

Cochrane's single staked Rube Walberg of the Athletics to a 1 to 0 victory over Joe Shaute of the Indians.

Ernie Orsatti's homer, his third in six games, accounted for the only score as Jess Haines of St. Louis blanked the Phillies, 1 to 0. But the Cards haven't made more than two runs a game since the Boston series and face tough going against the other western teams next week while the Giants take on the weaker eastern clubs.

The Pirates plastered the Giants again, 16 to 5. Burleigh Grimes turned in his fifth straight win against his former mates and his twenty-second victory of the season. The Bucs nicked five New York pitchers for 19 hits.

Good pitching by Malone and Root enabled the Cubs to grab both ends of a double-header from the Braves, 4 to 1 and 4 to 3.

The Tigers got a dose of their own medicine when they were nosed out by the Red Sox, 2 to 1, after having taken four straight from the Sox by a one-run margin. Ruffing and Stoner did the throwing.

THREE CALIFORNIANS IN TENNIS TOURNEY

Helen Wills Faces Real Battle To Retain Women's Crown

Forest Hills, N. Y., Aug. 25—California has made good her threat, for with the exception of Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, eight times holder of the title, the semi-finals of the women's national lawn tennis singles championship to be played here this afternoon will be an all-California affair with the heretofore invincible Helen Wills facing Miss Edith Cross, of San Francisco, in the upper bracket and Miss Helen Jacobs of Santa Brabara, furnishing the opposition for Mrs. Mallory.

Miss Wills has a really stiff battle ahead of her with Miss Cross because this young San Franciscan, in addition to being possessed of fine strength and stamina, is also endowed with remarkably good tennis brains. She is quick thinking and has fine co-ordination, so that Helen the champion will have to play some real tennis in the course of the match.

Helen was surprised yesterday to find that she had to bear down to quash a threatening uprising by Mrs. Charlotte Hosmer Chapin in her quarter finals match. Mrs. Chapin rallied to carry the fight right to the champion in the second set and when she took the eighth and ninth games to pull up to within one game of the champion it was a novel experience for Miss Wills. But she showed her superior ability by making short work of Mrs. Hosmer in the tenth game.

A square meal is whatever you have got used to.

Hugh Shults to Have Plenty Opposition for End Berth on Wittenberg Grid Team

Bucyrus Star Also Candidate for Position on 1928 Eleven

Springfield, Aug. 25—The good ship, Wittenberg, which furrowed rough seas in 1927 to a Buckeye football championship, will be well-manned this season to repeat.

New hands to be added to the Lutheran crew have come from many ports to man the guns and run the yards. Wittenberg loses only five: Maurer and Bradley at halfback, Maus at full, Brant at tackle and Beemon at guard. Two valuable men were not available this year because of injuries. They are Apple of Newark, fullback, and Al Marty of Akron, half.

Besides her two letterman, McFadden and VanHyning at ends, Wittenberg will have eleven others, making a total of 13 candidates for end positions. Nine men want places at tackle; 13 guards; four centers; four quarterbacks; 11 halfbacks; four fullbacks.

Among promising ends will be found Kish, captain in 1926 of the Bucyrus team; Cresger, all-city end of Toledo; Mikolashek of Akron; Shults of Marion; Webster of the Indiana championship team at Mishawaka; Englander and Putnam, both of Detroit. Besides these, Wittenberg will have Ted Marty of Akron, Mowery of Toledo, and Shutt of Strasburg.

Among the available tackles besides Harre of Toledo, Gladden of Lucas, Pettit of Elkhart, Ind., and Middleton of St. Paris, lads coming up include "Wild Bill" Edwards of Massillon, who two years ago was captain of the Ohio State freshman team, Roberts of Middleton, Ray Miller of Norwalk, Pugh (215 pounds) of Kent, and Wilde of Struthers.

Among guards besides regulars Betty of Newark, Christler of Wapakoneta, Claude Zimmierman of Dover, Bicking of Urbana, Libby of Antrim, N. H., Roy Miller of Massillon and Lange of Norwalk, there will be Buesching of Waite High of Toledo, Annis of Waite, Ramage, all-city guard of Youngstown, Marsh of Dayton Roosevelt, Harris and Singer both of Massillon.

A most likely center coming up from the freshman ranks is Witten, 1926 captain of Akron West High school, and all-city center of Akron for two years. Regulars include Catpain Robert Miller of Dover, Paetznick of Metropolis, Ill., and Carpenter of Van Wert.

Among ball carriers coming up are Kennedy of McKinley High, Canton, Krotzer of Gilsonburg, and Brady of Mishawaka, Ind. Other Wittenberg halfbacks will be Ulrich of Massillon, Brickle of Newark, McFarren of Canton, Al Marty of Akron, Merickel of Toledo, Melchiori of Wheeling, W. Va., Premisich of Mansfield, Barber of Springfield.

Fullbacks will be Schroeder of Massillon, Apple of Newark, Baker of Bucyrus, and Schaffer, all-city fullback of Akron West high school.

The new men come after many years of experience, and are more than just past members of football teams. They established records while playing their prep school games. Coaches E. R. Godfrey and Joe F. Hermann will have on hand 58 men. Of this number 17 are lettermen. Twenty-four will be newcomers, and fairly well distributed over the positions on the team. Three teams of better class will be available to the coaches at Wittenberg.

STAR FOUND GUILTY OF VIOLATING WRITER RULE OF ASSOCIATION

Conviction Follows Six-Hour Session of U. S. L. T. A. in New York

TO SEEK REINSTATEMENT

Committee Indicates That Door Has Been Closed Forever

NEW YORK, Aug. 25—William T. Tilden's reign as the greatest lawn tennis player of his time has come to an end. Charged with violating the amateur code of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, Tilden was tried by the executive committee of the association in a six hour session at Hotel Vanderbilt last night and was found guilty on all counts by unanimous vote.

Sentence that he be declared ineligible to take part in amateur lawn tennis was immediately passed upon him yet within 30 minutes after the verdict was announced—and the hour was 2 o'clock this morning—Tilden had sent word from Boston that he would seek reinstatement at the September meeting of the association.

But the committee by its formal resolution and in a lengthy statement issued concurrently, indicated the door has been closed upon him once and forever, not in so many words, but by inference so clear as to be unmistakable. There was evidence that the committee felt and knew that Tilden had flouted the rules from the very date of their adoption.

Experts of Wall Street Predict "New Bull Movement"

TICKERS RUN BEHIND IN FLOW OF ORDERS

Favorable Setting for Advance Furnished by Week-End Business Reviews

CHRYSLER MOVES UP

Raskobs, Duponts Behind Buying of General Motors Stock

Markets at a Glance

Industrial stocks strong, railroad stocks firm, Domestic bonds firm, Foreign bonds firm, Curb market stocks strong, Cotton firm, Grain easy, Oil firm, Rubber steady, Sugar steady, Pig iron firm and Foreign exchange weak.

By W. S. COUSINS
I. N. S. Financial Editor

New York, Aug 25—Friday's brilliant advance in the motor and industrial stocks was carried into the short session of the market today and prices of the market favorites started the day from one to five points higher. Buying orders flowed to the financial district in good volume as speculative experts heralded the approach of a "new bull movement."

A favorable setting for the new advance was furnished by the week-end financial and business reviews of the banks and mercantile agencies, which forecasted a wide expansion in American business this year and increasing profits for the corporations.

Bullish forces were encouraged by the aggressive leadership furnished by General Motors. The stock was taken in large blocks of from 10,000 to 15,000 shares at the highest prices on the recovery and representing a gain of nearly 20 points from the low of last week. Buying of Chrysler was stimulated by the advance notices of the Dodge models, which were expected to have a favorable public appeal. Packard, Hupp, and Studebaker failed to gain, though the stocks were taken in good volume.

Allied chemical joined the 200-club when that stock jumped seven points to 204 in active trading in the first period. Greene Cananea took the spotlight from American Smelting as the leader of the high-priced coppers, advancing about seven points to 120. Anaconda sold above 72 and International Nickel was forced up two points in active trading.

The ticker fell nine minutes behind the market at the end of the first hour in a repetition of the market confusion which accompanied the last heavy movement in May and June. The Raskobs and Duponts were reported actively behind the buying of General Motors, absorbing stock "with both hands" as fast as it was offered.

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meats, Grain, Livestock

Peaches for canning, selling at $1.80, $2 and $2.25, were the attraction on local fruit counters today. With the advent of cooler weather, Marion dealers are carrying a larger supply of the fruit and will continue to do so if sales justify, it was said today.

Scarcity of canning pickles, predicted yesterday by local dealers, was not evident today when a large supply was found on local produce counters. The pickles were selling from 50 to 75 cents a hundred, depending on the grade. There is evidence, however, that pickles for canning will not be abundant this year—due to lack of rain during the last two weeks.

Although sweet corn flooded the market today, sales were slow. Prices ranged from 15 to 20 cents a dozen, the lowest of the season.

Tomatoes still occupy a prominent place on local markets, selling at three pounds for 25 cents.

New peas and lima beans, priced at 25 cents a quart, sold rapidly, while wax beans did not go so well.

Pumpkins were still slow to appear in large quantities and sold for 25 and 30 cents each.

No permanent change was recorded in the price of meats and provisions, although excellent bargains were furnished by the Saturday sales.

Prices on various products are as follows:

New Potatoes, 25 to 28c pk.
New Cabbage, 5c.
Egg Plant, 20c & 25c.
Sweet Corn, 20 cents.
Cucumbers, 3 for 10c.
Wax Beans, 10c lb., 2 for 15c.
Green Beans, 10c lb., 2 for 15c.
New Peas, 25c lb.
New Beets, 2 for 15c.
Texas Sweet Onions, 5c lb.
Green Onions, 3 for 10c.
Green Peppers, 5 and 10c,
Parsley, 10c bunch.

New White Silver Skin Onions, 10c.
Garlic, 35c lb.
New Carrots, 2 bunches for 5c.
Sweet potatoes, 2 for 25c.
Tomatoes, 10c lb., 3 for 25c.

TODAY'S REVIEW OF YESTERDAY'S GRAIN

Chicago, Aug. 25—Once again expected fronts in Canada failed to materialize and wheat sold off sharply yesterday. The previous day's short covering had weakened the market and prices moved off easily, closing 1⅝c to 2¾c lower.

Corn prices held within a narrow range and finished ⅛@⅜ lower. Oats held fairly steady with corn, closing steady to ⅜c off, but rye was weak with wheat and finished 1½ @ 1¾c lower.

Foreign markets, confronted with the same situation that existed here, also displayed considerable easiness. Winnipeg futures prices registered net losses of 3¼c at the close, and Buenos Aires was ½c lower at mid-session. Liverpool, while closing ⅝@⅞d up, was not as strong as expected and finished at a fair reaction from the day's top.

Cables Are Weak

The disappointing cables, forecasts for warmer weather in Canada and advices which put at rest fears of frost damage caused recent buyers to sell. Commission houses and locals were on the selling side and their offerings, together with some scattered hedging sales, gave the market a heavy tone.

Shorts had covered rather heavily the previous day. This factor not only removed a good share of the buying power, but also added to the pressure. The decline was finally checked on buying by holders of the privileges.

Export trade was also disappointing to the holders of futures. While seaboard advised of a moderate demand, no actual sales were uncovered up to the close of the market. A further depressing feature of the export trade was Broomhall's estimate, which places the Argentine exportable surplus, old crop, at 55,000,000 bu.

Yesterday's decline puts prices back to where they were two weeks ago before the first intimations of possible frost damage to the crop. Reports from Canada now not only indicate there was little damage done, but also that very little damage can be done from now on. This leaves the situation much as it was two weeks ago with prospects for a "trading market" unless something startling in the way of foreign demand makes itself felt.

Corn Shells Ahead Here

The cash wheat market was heavy with the future. The basis was unchanged, and prices ruled in sympathy. Local shipping sales totaled 15,000 bu. and sales of 200,000 bu to go to arrive also were made.

Lower temperatures over part of the corn belt brought many reports to the effect that the delayed maturities of the yellow cereal, but in a moderate trade confirmed sales and current prices readily moved in sympathy with wheat. There was a good buying of the September months of the corn and oats, and prices of the former showed a net gain of 1¼c to 1½c. Sales of corn were 200,000 bu and oats 100,000 bu.

Democrats of Ohio Pledge Support to Smith-Robinson Ticket; Praise Vic Donahey

Firm Position Taken on Prohibition and Farm Relief Issues at State Convention in Columbus; 24 Presidential Electors Nominated

Columbus, Aug. 25—A state platform, pledging Ohio Democrats to the "loyal and unqualified support" of Gov. Alfred E. Smith, of New York, for president of the United States, and U. S. Senator Joseph T. Robinson, Arkansas, for vice president; praising the "record and accomplishments" of Gov. Vic Donahey, and taking a firm position on the issues of prohibition and farm relief, was adopted at the Democratic state convention here yesterday afternoon.

The platform contained planks condemning the last Republican state legislature because of enactment of taxation measures and "excessive appropriations." Had it not been for Donahey's vetoes, the state treasury would have been bankrupt as a result of appropriations made by the Republican solons, the platform charged.

"Strict Law Enforcement"

On the issue of law enforcement, the platform pledges the Democratic party in Ohio to a program of "strict law enforcement as the foundation of good government" and declares that Ohio Democrats stand committed to "protect the sanctity of the private home."

The platform pledges the party to a "sincere effort to make substantial reduction" in state governmental expenses; favors a program for the conservation of all natural resources of the state; urges election reforms, including provision for an easier recount of ballots and for permanent registration of voters.

Lauding the Ohio Workmen's compensation act, the platform asserted that the Democratic party is a "friend of labor," and declared that it stood "ready to aid and encourage industry and commerce."

Change Criminal Laws

Other platform planks recommended changes in the criminal laws for the purpose of preventing "use of technicalities for the evasion of justice;" favored continuance of the "honest, businesslike administration" of the state highway department; and urged construction of a new state office building.

The platform favores such "regulation of public utilities as will insure the consumer full value for every dollar paid for service," proposed the re-establishment of the state circulating library, and pledged Ohio Democrats to a continuance of state aid for the weaker school districts of the state, and to an "even greater degree of efficiency in operating the state welfare department."

Name Candidates

The convention nominated the following candidates for presidential electors:

First congressional district: Alfred M. Cohen, Cincinnati.
Second: J. N. Price, Cincinnati.
Third: Hugh Gilmore, Dayton.
Fourth: Dr. M. L. Downing, Rockford, Mercer county.
Fifth: W. A. Marker, Van Wert.
Sixth: A. D. Troxel, Portsmouth.
Seventh: M. B. Barnes, Clinton county.
Eighth: Judge Walter H. Kinder, Findlay.
Ninth: Edward J. Barry, Toledo.
Tenth: Fred G. Leet, Ironton.
Eleventh: J. E. Powell, New Lexington.
Twelfth: Clayton A. McCleary, Columbus.
Thirteenth: Floyd Heald, Bowling Green.
Fourteenth: Dr. E. A. Kremer, Wadsworth.
Fifteenth: Mrs. Dell B. Howell, Zanesville.
Sixteenth: William Feller, Canton.
Seventeenth: George S. Brushwood, Coshocton.
Eighteenth: C. V. Beatty, East Liverpool.
Nineteenth: Charles Smith, Youngstown.
Twentieth: Edith A. Wolfe, Cleveland.
Twenty-first: S. F. Roder, Cleveland.
Twenty-second: A. J. Kennel, Cleveland.

The convention unanimously named Robert T. Scott, Cambridge, former chairman Democratic state central committee; and Thomas Dye, Urbana, former chairman Democratic state executive committee, presidential electors at large.

POSITIVE AGITATION

THERE is a new exact measure of cleanliness for floor coverings—the amount of dirt removed from the rug for every minute of cleaning.

Here is the real test of any cleaning method. And in this test the Hoover has repeatedly proved its ability to remove the most dirt per minute.

"Positive Agitation" gives the Hoover this greater dirt-per-minute capacity. This sensational cleaning principle beats out the deepest-buried dirt from your rugs. To this deep-beating are added sweeping which removes the lint, and suction which gathers up the dirt from the surface of the rug. Only in cleaners made by The Hoover Company are the three essentials of thorough cleaning combined.

We shall be glad to demonstrate in your home the Hoover's ability to remove the most dirt per minute. Phone us today.

Cash prices: Model 700 Hoover, $75. Model 543, $89.50. Dusting tools, $12.50. Model 972, $135.00; Dusting tools, $15.00. Floor Polisher, $7.50. Easy payments if desired. Only $6.25 down. Liberal allowance on your old machine.

DROPS 3,400 FEET

Veteran Aviator Sets New Record in Parachute Fall

CHICAGO, Aug. 25—Jack Cope, veteran aviator, today boasted a new world's record in "parachuting" from an airplane.

Cope stepped into space from an airplane cabin door 10,000 feet over Ashburne flying field here. He dropped 3,400 feet before opening his parachute.

His plummet-like drop lasted 13½ seconds, and covered a vertical distance equivalent to five Woolworth towers one on top of the other. He landed safely amid a foursome of golfers.

The previous "sheer drop" record was held by Sergeant Boes, army aeronaut, who claimed to have fallen 2,200 feet before opening his parachute.

Cope admitted he had not intended to fall so far.

"It was my intention to count 20 before I yanked the cord," he said, "but I became confused and counted up to 28 before I pulled."

GOES TO SMITH

Trustee of Coolidge's Alma Mater for Democratic Nominee

New York, Aug. 25—At least one trustee of Amherst, President Coolidge's alma mater, is out for Governor Smith.

Democratic headquarters today made public a telegram from Arthur Curtiss James, financier, railroad operator and manufacturer, pledging his support to the Democratic national ticket. James has been a trustee of Amherst since 1904. He is a director of the C. B. & Q., Great Northern, and several smaller railroads as well as director and vice president of the Phelps-Dodge Corp.

"Hearty congratulations on your great acceptance speech," he wired Governor Smith from his Newport, R. I. estate. "I pledge you my support."

"The Front Page" is One Newspaper Play Meriting Praise from Newspapers

BY RUTH MORRIS
Star Staff Correspondent

New York, Aug. 25—With much whoopee Broadway officially began its dramatic season at the Times Square. The occasion was the opening of the eagerly awaited production of "The Front Page," the Ben Hecht-Charles McArthur play of newspapermen.

"The Front Page" is a swell show. There is little plot, its narrative being simply the account of "Hildy" Johnson, a star reporter whose repeated efforts to quit his job in Chicago in order to marry and go to New York to enter the advertising field, are rudely interrupted when a good story "breaks." But for entertainment value it is unsurpassed.

The action takes place in the press room of the Criminal Courts building in Chicago. The press gang sits around idly waiting until the dawn for the hanging of Earl Williams, convicted of killing a cop. "Hildy" arrives to say his good-byes and incidentally to call his managing editor several varieties of a swine by phone. All set to leave, he is halfway out the door when the shrieking siren in the deathhouse sounds its warning that the condemned man has escaped. A moment's hesitation and "Hildy" is at the phone, giving his paper the story. He is back on the job. This first act curtain is one of the best ever seen on Broadway.

Play Well Cast

The second and third acts deal with the pursuit of the criminal, his discovery by the able "Hildy", the attempted newspaper scoop which fails, and finally—but it wouldn't be fair to tell what does happen to "Hildy" when he thinks he really is comfortably on his way to New York with his fiancee.

The action of the play is fast and furious and the newspaper "atmosphere" is perfect. The lingo of its characters makes the cuss-words of "What Price Glory" seem as Sunday school conversation but it is so natural, so much a part of the entire scene, that it is never offensive but rather, hilariously funny.

Lee Tracy, who played the role of the "hoofer" in "Broadway," is "Hildy" Johnson, the reporter who cannot seem to quit his job. His characterization is perfect. Osgood Perkins, as the managing editor, also gives an excellent performance. But the same may be said of the entire cast. Each one "clicks" and the result is a play that stands well to run for many, many months.

Not So Good

The other opening of the week was not so good.

At the Forty-Eighth Street theater was presented an opus entitled "The Song Writer," with Georgie Price starring. Its first and second acts were fairly convincing, but the third act might well never have been written. It is sloppy, sentimental and mushy. The first covered the wooing of a Park av. heiress by a self-made ballad writer and the elopement and in the second, the bored and disillusioned bride, seeking amusement in the apartment of an erstwhile admirer of her single days, with the aid of many cocktails, is discovered by her saddened husband. Unrepentant, she flings insults upon his bowed head and leaves him with the words "cheap clown" ringing in his ears.

The "Song-Writer" thereupon feels the muse steal over him and writes one of his greatest hits. "You're Gone" So far so good.

And That Third Act

But for no reason at all in the third act she comes back and the final close-up can compete well with some of those lovely movie scenes for which title writers have found only one caption, "Came the Dawn."

Georgie Price's characterization is far from perfect. One never feels much sympathy for him, even in his moments of dire distress. Ethel Wilson and Nell Pratt engage in a bit of comedy which is fairly amusing at first but grows tiresome. And their honeymoon jests flung at the youthful bridegroom are at times more than indelicate. Mayo Method, as Patricia Thayer, the Park av. heiress' gives one of the best performances in the play.

Hoover's School Days

If School Had Been Properly Managed Herb Never Would Have Needed To Wait on Table

By WILL ROGERS

WELL, all I know is just what little I read in the papers. Hoover and Smith both broke out since I commenced with you last. We will take Hoover's apart first and see what is the matter with it, then maby next week we will take up the cravings of Mr. Smith.

Hoover come home to be notified, he did that so he could show some people where home was. When a lot of folks heard he was going home to receive the nomination, they said, "Gee going clear over to England," and others thought he might have to go to Moscow, or Melbourne. But it was at Palo Alto. Its not a horn, its a kind of a town like all college places are, "a kind of a town."

Hoover's Alma Mater

Well, its our here in California and the air line that brings you down from Frisco flys right over it. I looked down but we had passed it. But it's a college town with Drug Stores that sell lettuce sandwiches, and more peanut butter than parngaric, and plenty of Chili, and Hot dog stands. But it's a mighty pretty place, and Standford University is located there. It's the University that keeps cutting down on the number of Freshmen that enter every year, till they hope to have it perfect some day by not having any. Well by eliminating Freshmen, that in time will gradually do away with Sophomores, and that is the rainbow that they are striving for.

Well it seems that Mr. Hoover went to school there away back when they had to call it Leland Standford so people would know what they were talking about. But after Hoover went out from there and got work so readily why they decided that they didnt need the given name so they dropped it. There wasent enough Standford Universitys that people were liable to get it conflicted with some other one. But they didn't know that at first. They gradually learned that after they got into the University amosphere. Well it's the school that Hoover worked his way through. He had no idea when he was doing it that it would be such a sales talk in his campaign later on. But in those days boys wanted an education whether they got a fraternity pin or not.

Pop Warner's Turn

Why things educationally were queer in those days they even had reading and writing and arithmetic, instead of football, that's how primative Standford was. Dident even have as much as a Golf Course what do you know about that for a two reel University? They built a Library before they built a swimming pool. Wouldnet that make you laugh now! They dident get football till after Carlise disbanded because they dident have anybody else to beat. So Pop Warner was looking for some primative people that would pick up his trick plays like the Indians so they told him to go to Standford. He would have the rawest material there to work with of any place in this country. There had never been a football in the country, and a stadium was as foreign to them as a Niblick. Up to then Boys had gone there for their head and not for their shoulders. So Pop went out and in two years why the school had as many Scouts out looking for high school boys who could do 100 in ten flat and who had carried more footballs than they ever had books, and in three years Pop had the old Hoover Alma Mater on a paying basis, and from then on Hoover and Pop are to Stanford what Coolidge and Morrow are to Amherst.

Takes Will Along

If Hoover had only known it, and the School had been properly managed, he wouldent have had to wait on the table when he went there, he could have made a couple of touchdowns every Saturday and been carried off the grounds and thats all the worrying he would have had to do about who was to pay for the washing. But while Herbert dident know that, he did know a lot of things. He kinder had a premonition that some day he might be in a positiou to need a good man who could tell about his good qualities if he ever got in a pinch and needed a written avadavit. So he took with him to school Will Irwin, a fellow that at that time maby dident show any more possibilities than Herbert did.

He wouldn't have had to wait on table

But Herb always said to himself, "There's my Boswell, if I ever pull a Doctor Johnston. I will just lug him along with me." And old Will sure come through mighty nice. Just when the farmers was throwing what few ronstin ears they had raised, at Herbert on account o fhis turning a deaf ear to Mary McHaughen, why Will just came through with the most beautiful things about Herb you ever saw. It looked like Will had a marvelous memory recollecting the good things that Herb had done and the happy faculty of forgetting any devilment.

Loved Farmers

And Will told how Hoover had always even as a Boy just loved Farmers and couldent do anything in the world to hurt one, that he had seen him while at Standford pick up little Farmers that had maby been hurt or drunk, and take them to their homes. He said Herb's heart and soul was always with the Farmers, that he would never let a Teacher in School say anything against a poor defenseless farmer, and that the reason he had been against the Mary McHaughen Bill was because on account of Calvin, that he, Hoover, was working for Calvin at the time and that he wanted to do all he could to stand in with him at that time. That he had something else coming up and if he stood right with Cal that it would mean that Cal wouldent stand in his way, and so endeth the principal chapter in the life of Mr. Hoover.

Palace Theater Opening Program is Featured by High Class Attractions

Motion Picture, "Excess Baggage," Adapted from Popular Stage Play; Keith-Albee Vaudeville Bill Lists Three Headline Acts, Including Noted "Mental Wizard"

The opening program of the Palace theater has been announced by the management.

The latest Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer film release, "Excess Baggage," adapted from the stage play that is having such a sensational run in Chicago and New York, starring the lovable "wise boy," William Haines, and featuring Josephine Dunn and Ricardo Cortez, has been selected as the first picture.

The story takes all behind the scenes of a vaudeville theater, one of the most interesting locales in the world, and follows the adventures of a vaudeville troupe both on and off the stage with sidelights into the movie colony.

Haines Stands Out

Haines, as the slack-rope walker, does his best work in the picture, a drama, of love, interest and life. From the moment he makes his appearance until the final fade-out, he holds the attention of the spectators.

James Cruse is the director.

The opening program includes three acts of Keith-Albee vaudeville, booked direct for the Palace theater from New York undr the direction of Charles De Laney.

Featured on the vaudeville bill is Harry Kahne, the world's supreme mentalist offering a "new and greater mental achievement." Concentration is the keynote of his offering. Single, double, triple and quintuple concentration in the order named is performed with a certainty that never lacks confirmation.

Open to Tests

Mr. Kahne is open to any mental tests that the audience may desire to subject him to. However, owing to the limited amount of time alloted him for his personal performance on the stage, he will be obliged to confine his efforts to the execution of his original demonstrations of multiple concentration and mental alertness, for the present, but will gladly consent to be tested in private by any one who may wish to challenge his brain power, it is announced.

Tilyou and Rogers, the second featured act of Keith vaudeville, offer a comedy skit, "The Younger Generation." Modern youth is at the present time having its innings and never before have they been championed, condemned, belittled, exalted than they are now. Tilyou and Rogers discuss youth and the younger generation with great gusto but they accomplish nothing—but laughs.

Original Dance Act

The Casson Brothers and Marie are novelty character dancers and creators of dance steps. They have an original act, lacking neither beauty, grace, character or entertainment. Their act is described as "a new note in terpischorean symphony."

The opening program will introduce to Marion people two new and clever forms of entertainment and enjoyment. One is that of Banks Kennedy, feature orgaist, radio star, song writer and master of the new Palace Page Wonder organ. He has prepared a solo, written by himself, "Everybody's Welcome At the Palace."

The other feature is in the form of a novel musicale, "A Night In the Clock Store," played by the new Palace Concert orchestra under the direction of Elmer Newstrom, Chicago concert orchestra conductor.

FAIR WEATHER TODAY FOR MARIETTA'S RACES

Marietta, Aug. 23 — With fair weather promised, the exodus of speedboat fans to the banks of the Muskingum began early today, thrilled with anticipation over the completion of events in the regatta which was abruptly halted yesterday by a torrential downpour sending 15,000 spectators scurrying for cover.

Alonso Pawling, Milwaukee millionaire sportsman, whose trim Bittle craft was badly damaged Thursday by flames when his engine blew up, again provided the big thrill of the day. Desperately striving to overtake the leader in the Class C race, Pawling whirled his wheel as he rounded a buoy at 30 miles an hour and the steering apparatus ripped off. The pilot narrowly escaped death when the boat swerved toward a steel barge, careening away when but a scant yard from the barge.

Rockford, Ill. Minister Appointed to Pastorate of First Church of Brethren

Rev. C. G. Canfield To Begin Service Here Sunday, Sept. 2; Fills One of Seven Vacancies Listed in Local Churches in Last Few Months

Within a week the pastorate of First Church of Brethren, vacant since resignation of the Rev. W. R. Shively in the spring, will be filled by a new pastor.

The new minister is the Rev. C. G. Canfield, of Rockford, Ill., who will begin his services here Sunday, Sept. 2. He will arrive here with his family the latter part of next week.

Mr. Canfield, who has substituted at the local church several times, was extended the call here by the local congregation after preaching in Marion last Sunday. He accepted the latter part of the week. He has just resigned as pastor of the First Church of Brethren at Rockford.

No Service Sunday.

With the exception of Sunday-school at 9 o'clock there will be no services Sunday at the Church of Brethren.

Mr. Canfield will occupy one of the three pulpits vacant here at the present time. In less than four months Marion has lost seven pastors and this is only the third vacancy filled.

The other changes included resignation of Dr. U. S. Davis, Trinity Baptist church, where the pulpit is still vacant; resignation of the Rev. Earl L. Holliday, Emmanuel Baptist church, who leaves for Lorain in early September; transfer of the Rev. Father John T. Hannahan, assistant pastor of St. Mary's Catholic church; and the deaths of the Rev. Frank P. George, Community church, and the Rev. L. W. White, Park Street A. M. E. church. The Rev. James C. Bolin, pastor of Bennett Street Nazarene mission, accepted a call to St. Paris, O., as the Bennett street church services were discontinued.

Father Hannahan was succeeded by the Rev. Father Herbert McDevitt, of Dayton, and Mr. White by the Rev. T. M. Sellers, of Kenton.

The other two visiting pastors are the Rev. Marcus Grether, of the Austin department of the Chicago Y. M. C. A., who will preach at First Reformed church at 10:30 a. m., and the Rev. J. H. Winkler, of LaRue, who will preach at Community church, Herman st., at 8 o'clock Sunday night.

— Peace —

A SERMONETTE

BY THE REV. S. S. HARDY
Rector St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

THE multi-lateral treaty for the renunciation of war will be signed in Europe by representatives of many nations on Monday next. This treaty may be described as a superb ideal. And, after all, nations, like individuals, are incited to nobler living by their ideals.

Our ideals have an inevitable reaction upon us; looking up, we are lifted from the lower plane of selfishness to the higher altitude of sacrifice and service. One does well to hitch his wagon to a star. It is good for nations, with pure faith, solemnly to renounce war as an instrument of national policy.

Christ held firmly to the peace ideal. He longed for the age of universal peace. Nevertheless, while not forsaking his ideal, when occasion required he resorted to forceful methods to accomplish good ends. It was with a whip he drove the traders from the temple. He realized that the accomplishment of an ideal required time. The realization of an ideal is like the growth of His Kingdom; like the maturing harvest—first the blade, then the ear, then the full corn in the ear. Ideals, like harvests, are things to be visioned at seeding time and to be hoped for and worked for and waited for with patience. The Kellogg ideal and the Wilson ideal will take time to mature.

Since the nation is the individual writ large, the problem of national and international peace concerns the individual. The peaceful spirit must replace the pugnacious spirit in us all. A peaceful nation is not possible unless a large proportion of its nationals are imbued with the ideal of peace. Peace, then, is primarily a problem of the individual; it involves family life, community life, state life and so has its bearing ultimately upon nations.

You and I have each our part to play in the accomplishment of international peace, and small though that part may seem to be, there is none other to play it than ourselves.

101 Ranch Provides Local Crowds With Many Thrills

Frontier days were recalled and transplanted to Marion yesterday when the Miller Brothers 101 Ranch Wild West show presented two performances on the Drake lot.

The performances ran along speedily, opening with a beautiful spectacle, "Julius Caesar," and closing with the burning of the covered wagon by the attacking redskins.

Undoubtedly the feature that will be remembered the longest was the elephant act, probably the fastest pachyderm display ever seen here. Directed by a wisp of a girl, the "bulls" went through their paces with a speed that was amazing.

The 101 Ranch has scores of beautiful horses and they are given plenty of opportunity to demonstrate their fine points.

This season the circus is offering the cavalry of all nations. The finale of this number in which the riders race about the open arena in various formations brought heavy applause from the audience.

Plenty of Thrills

Other interesting numbers on the program included roping, the pony express, the high school horses, the robbing of the stage coach, Indian buffalo hunt, riding of steers and bucking broncboes, and the Hodgini Indian bareback riding act.

There were sufficient Indians and cowboys to keep the neighborhood youngster's imagination fired for days.

The show is probably the last circus Marion will see this season. It came here from Mansfield and left early this morning for Toledo. After a week of Michigan engagements the circus will head south.

deemed proper. Announcement was made by Silver of the appointment of former Secretary of State Thad H. Brown, Columbus, as secretary Herbert Hoover's personal representative on the committee; Mayor John D. Marshall, Cleveland, as the personal representative of Congressman Theodore E. Burton, Cleveland, Republican nominee for U. S. senator, unexpired term, and of Edward Martin as personal representative of U. S. Senator Simeon D. Fess, who is seeking reelection.

Silver is a former speaker of the Ohio house of representatives and recently resigned as assistant state auditor to manage Cooper's pre-primary campaign. Silver also was in charge of Cooper's pre-primary campaign two years ago.

Real Estate Man

Nixon, a former newspaper man, is in the real estate business at Dayton. He succeeds Attorney Fred W. Warner, Marion, who served as chairman of the state central committee for a number of years.

Carmi Thompson managed the Ohio campaign waged by the anti-Hoover forces preceding the presidential primary election last April. Thad Brown directed the political activities of the Hoover forces at that time in the Buckeye state.

The selections made at yesterday's conference were interpreted as being in the interest of party harmony and designed to weld the so-called Hoover and Willis groups of Ohio Republicans during the campaign this fall. Former Chairman Warner was active in putting this harmony plan into effect. He offered the resolution, which was adopted, providing for the selection of Silver and the other members of the campaign committee.

HOOVER SUPPORTERS CLAIM 235 VOTES

Nominee Picks Up Reins of Party To Run Own Campaign

Washington, Aug. 25—While his lieutenants boasted that his western trip had carried him to within 31 electoral votes of election as president, Herbert Hoover today picked up the reins of his party to run his own campaign in the east.

His only plans for the week-end was to get "18 hours sleep," to catch up on some of the rest lost on his 3,500-mile trip from California to Washington. On Monday he will open his presidential campaign office in a fashionable residence near him own home in northwest Washington.

The Hoover claims for electoral votes undoubtedly will be disputed heatedly by Democratic leaders. His advisers nevertheless were confident, and so was Hoover, that he will carry the west in almost landslide proportions from the Mississippi river to the Pacific ocean.

235 "In the Bag"

The Hoover group claimed 235 electoral votes "were in the bag," while but 266 are required for election. The states listed as "certain" for Hoover were:

Pennsylvania 38; Ohio 24; Indiana 15; Illinois 29; Michigan 15; Minnesota 12 Iowa 13; North Dakota 5; Nebraska 8; Oklahoma 10; Kansas 10; Colorado 6; Wyoming 3; Utah 4; Nevada 3; Idaho 4; Oregon 5; Washington 7; California 13; Arizona 3; West Virginia 8.

Hoover has a great area, including the whole Atlantic seaboard, from which to pick up the missing 31 votes and to recover whatever states he might lose from his "certain" list.

Hoover came home confident he had won the farm belt to his farm relief program. He was rather enthusiastic over the outlook for holding the farm group in the Republican party. He even told some of his friends that farm relief had been taken out of presidential campaign, since the Democrats had failed to make any real issue of it.

SUNDAY WAR LOOMS

Ashland Theater Owners Serve Notice on Merchants

Ashland, Aug. 25—Possibility of the opening of a "blue law" war on a large scale loomed here today following action of unidentified theater owners in serving notice on all business men in the city that affidavits for arrest would be filed against anyone doing business on Sunday.

At the recent primary election, a proposal to repeal the existing ban on Sunday shows was voted down and the continuation of business men by theater operators forecasts a drastic campaign on the part of the show men to have their theaters open on Sunday.

NEW WAY TO PUNISH

MARION YOUNGSTERS PLAY THEIR FIFES

More Than 250 Learn Two Numbers at Their First Rehearsal

is held with the "left hand high." The two musical numbers, "Merrily" and "Twinkle" were then introduced and the fun really began.

Promise to Practice

Rehearsal closed after Mr Baxter exacted a promise from every little band member that 30 minutes' fife practice would be taken each day this week.

Next week the kiddie's band will take up the two most popular fife numbers, "America" and "Yankee Doodle," and their first "marching practice" will be held. Mr. Baxter will remain in Marion for lessons on at least three more Saturdays. Mr. Baxter plays drums as an accompaniment.

That the band was a success this morning was evidenced in the fact that a number of parents; music dealers, music instructors and a representative of the Lecture Recital club, local Boy Scout troop and various music superintendents in the vicinity attended the rehearsal, pledging their support in the enterprise. Parents and persons interested in music and youngsters are particularly urged to attend all meetings of the band, and, so Mr. Baxter said, will even be permitted to get an instrument and play.

To Get Another Hall

Rehearsals next Saturday and from then on will be held in a larger hall. Mr. Baxter stated, as the Dugout was found too small to meet the requirements of so large an organization. Announcement of the choice of a hall will be made next week.

The purpose of the band, organized in Marion through the efforts of the Musical Education association, is to stimulate interest in music among children and to aid parents in determing whether or not their children possess musical talent.

"The child who listens attentively to instruction, is careful of his instrument and music is the child to whom one may look for future development of musical talent," Mr. Baxter said,—for instance in the children, who without being told, obtained cases for their little instruments and pasted their music to cardboard to prevent tearing it, I see a decided musical inclination."

88 New Members

The 88 new band members who boosted the band membership from the 200-mark to nearly 300 since yesterday are Dale Lingrell, Charles Curtis, Jack Jones, Donald Miller, Clifford Gulliford, John Kehrwecker, Harley Sigler, Victor Anghenbaugh, Chester Bruce Morris, Hazel Woodside, Robert Wetzel, Angela and Jack Barford, Ivan Cooper, Frank White, La Mar Bonnette, Ruth and Dale Nicklaus, Mildred Miller, Annabelle and Beulah Lingrell, Rose Uncapher, Edwin Wylie, Doris Shuster, Donald Helwig, James Fletcher and Joe Sens.

NEW ERIE QUARTERS NEARING COMPLETION

Division Offices To Be Moved from Uptown Location Next Week

Offices of the Kent division, Erie railroad, now located in the Uhler-Phillips building, will be moved the middle of next week to new quarters in the terminal building at the Union station, it was announced today by J. R. Folsom, chief train dispatcher.

The terminal building was formerly the Erie restaurant. It has been completely remodeled and provisions made for 18 office rooms on the two floors. The second floor will be occupied by the offices of the superintendent, and chief train dispatcher, together with the telegraph office. The first floor will be taken up with offices of the first division engineer, claim agent, and division freight agent.

Installation and wiring of telephone and telegraph equipment in the new building is in charge of both the Western Union and Erie railroad forces. The equipment is of the latest type and makes the local Erie telegraph and dispatch office one of the most up-to-date in the country.

In remodeling the old Erie restaurant, contractors have installed all modern office conveniences, including steam heat, water fountains, and the like. The building is also one of the most attractive in the city.

The Erie offices now occupy a portion of the fourth and fifth floors of the Uhler-Phillips building. The new office will be more conveniently located for carrying on the business of the railroad. The Erie offices will be located in the downtown district following the change next week.

AIRPORT FINANCING PLANS ARRANGED

Negotiation of Loan Due To Come Before Council Monday Night

Plans for financing purchase of the 104-acre tract of land for Marion's new municipal airport will be considered at the regular meeting of city council Monday night, City Auditor Luther Landes said today.

Two paths are open to council for financing the purchase. It is provided that the money shall first be raised by borrowing on a note or notes at one or more of the local banks. Under provision of law this debt must be paid off within the next year either through direct tax levy or by issuing refunding bonds.

It is stated that council will endeavor to have the airport purchase price included in the city's tax budget next year. Should the county budget commission refuse to authorize the levy, the city will then adopt the plan for issuing bonds.

City Auditor Landes announced today that he had found a party who will accept the city's notes and loan the money for the purchase as soon as legislation to that effect was passed.

New York Subway Horror.

The New York subway horror of Friday in which almost two score were killed and over 150 injured again brings home to us that in the midst of life we are in death. The scene of the accident was in the Times Square district, which is a veritable maze of underground trackage, and the time was shortly after 5 o'clock, which is the city's busiest traffic hour, when hundreds of thousands of New Yorkers were on their way homeward. Thus it was that the ten-car express train which suffered the accident was even more tightly jammed with passengers than would have been the case at some other time.

That the list of dead and injured is not longer is almost a miracle. Seven cars had passed over a switch, but the eighth car split it and started down another track causing it to turn sideways to the following two cars, which cut it almost in two.

For a time, the cause of the accident was a mystery. It was not understood why the eighth car split the switch, after seven cars had safely passed over it. Later the mystery was dispelled. The switch had been acting badly and care had been exercised throughout the day in taking trains over it. Workmen to whom had been assigned the job of making repairs thought they had it in perfect working order, but even at that trainmen were ordered to go slowly in passing over it till time had demonstrated its safe condition. Thus it was that the train was not running at express speed, but was just picking up speed, when the accident occurred—picking up more speed than the defective switch was able to stand.

There is always a reason for accidents. We may not always discover them, but they always exist.

No Mystery About It.

The sport writers, so a New York story tells us, can't understand Gene Tunney. He's an enigma to them. They are simply unable to figure out why, at the zenith of his fame, he should surrender the heavyweight championship of the world and quit the fighting game. One points out that Tunney is yet young and at the heighth of his physical vigor; that he has been showing more skill as a fighter at each of his succeeding fights, and holds that he would probably be able to retain the championship for a number of years, possibly adding another million to that he already has.

The thing is not so hard to understand if we go into it with the assumption that the heavyweight championship was not Tunney's goal in entering the fistic game as a professional, but simply a means to an end. Let us assume that he has long had the intelligence that he has lately manifested. Let us assume that he realized that he was strong, healthy, vigorous, active and clever with his fists. Let us assume that he looked ahead to the future and saw such opportunities for the acquiring of riches in the fighting game as no other offered and he went into it and acquired a fortune. The championship was not his goal. Had it been, he would have held on to it. Mere money was not his goal. Had it been, he would have held the championship and made still more. No, they were but stepping-stones to something else. It may be that he has a desire to perfect himself in the enjoyment of literature or art. It may be travel has a lure for him. It may be that the explanation is love. Time will tell.

But it has long been a matter of comment that Tunney did not like to speak or act like any fighter before him; that he was averse to the role of the fighter save when in the ring; that he avoided ring followers and ring associations and sought the associations of people of refinement and culture. In any event, having acquired a fortune he quit the fighting game.

And Tunney, who has not changed in the least, who is the same Tunney he was throughout his championship career, is more popular today than he ever was before. He has become popular with the general public and with ring followers, and the sport writers, who so long cordially disliked and criticized him and his ways, are today showing him reverence and singing his praises, paying such tributes to him as a man and a fighter as they never did before.

And this change of attitude on the part of the sport writers is not so surprising either. The explanation is simple. They recognize the fact that they overlooked the fact that he has brains—more brains by far than any of his predecessors possessed. They realize that he alone of all the heavyweight champions within the memory of man outplayed the fighting game; that he knew how to profit by it financially and save what he made, how to avoid its bad associations and influences, and know when to quit it. (And they are forced to admire the intelligence and courage and fortitude which enabled him to do it. Thus it is that they forgive him for "scorning the base degrees by which he did ascend."

Even some of the members of the council of Minneapolis which recently passed it are condemning the ordinance providing for the killing of all unmuzzled dogs on sight—an ordinance passed without anything like a mad dog seen in the city. Shipping interests report a marked falling-off in first-class transatlantic travel with a corresponding gain in cabin-ship passages. Well, why not? Why shouldn't people prefer to go across in peace and comfort without all the fuss of dressing up and otherwise "putting on side," to say nothing of the money saved for expenditure across in Europe or here at home?

"It's a lot of applesauce," Ruth Donnelly told Paris reporters when asked concerning the report that she is soon to marry the cousin of King Alfonso of Spain. "I didn't even know the king of Spain had a cousin." And then she wanted to know the why of all the publicity being given her. Can it be that the people of the stage and the literati are sidestopping the spot-light?

AFTER 50 YEARS OF FAITHFULNESS.

Ailments of the Legs.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Many persons are afflicted with varicose veins of the legs, varicose ulcers or both. Laundresses, bakers, cooks, barbers, store clerks and other persons who stand on their feet for long hours at a time are apt to suffer with these painful troubles.

As a rule, varicose veins are caused by some interference in the circulation of the blood. Something has produced increased tension in the vessels. It may come after some debilitating sickness, childbirth, or a mechanical injury.

The first symptoms noticed in varicose ulcer are swelling of the limbs, pressure on the veins causing enlargement, twists and knots. Soon after this the tissues break down, because of the lack of elasticity and the stretching of the tissues. Then the ulcers appear.

At first there may be just a reddened surface. But very soon an ulcer is formed. This may be small, or it may involve the surface of the leg to a diameter of five or six inches. In some cases the ulcer extends clear around the leg.

The area between the knee and ankle is almost always the seat of the trouble. Sometimes the varicose veins spread above the knee, but this is not the rule.

From the first appearance of the enlargement of the veins it is a great help to wear either a tight bandage or an elastic stocking. When I say a tight bandage, I do not mean one which cuts off the circulation, but it should be applied firmly enough to give support to the limb.

Elastic stockings may be purchased at any surgical supply house or a drug store carrying these things. In any case, the stockings must be properly fitted by someone who understands their use in such cases.

Local treatment of the ulcers is necessary, but the first thing to do is to build up the general health. Until the general vigor is improved, it is difficult to relieve the local trouble.

Whenever possible a person suffering with varicose veins should remain off the feet, keeping the limb elevated. This may be done by putting a pillow on a chair and resting the limb on it. In this way the excess blood is kept out of the veins and the swelling is reduced.

In cases where the ulcer is open, great care should be exercised in keeping it clean. It should be washed with clean water and soap, dried carefully and then dusted with zinc oxide or powdered quinine. If the wound becomes infected the pus must be cleaned up each day.

Often times the varicose veins do not respond to treatment and operations may be necessary. If so, the doctor will advise you.

Editorial Opinion.

HOOVER'S MESSAGE.

Hoover's speech embraces many subjects, but foremost in interest among these in South Dakota is his discussion of agriculture. The nominee did not hedge on this subject, and his careful treatment of it effectively disarms those who contend that the farmers do not loom prominently on his horizon. Eight thousand words of his address are devoted to farming. He surveys the problem from several angles and convince the Argus-Leader that the farmers have a real friend in Hoover and one who is capable of making his sympathies something more than a meaningless jumble of words. Hoover's speech reveals a close study of rural ills and a definite desire to alleviate them. He makes specific suggestions that should gladden the heart of every one interested in the welfare of agriculture.

Hoover outlines the cause of agriculture's difficulties with a keen perception. He does not make the mistake so many have made in assuming that t war and the attendant deflation produced the farm troubles. He realizes that the agricultural worries were making their appearance before the war. This is a premise not always properly understood.

The presidential candidate, after displaying a thorough understanding of the situation, comes forth with suggestions for its correction. He first mentions the tariff, declaring that "an adequate tariff is the foundation of farm relief.' He makes this pledge: "I would use my office and influence to give the farmer the full benefit of our historic tariff policy." This is plain and in accord with the views of economists and statisticians. The Argus-Leader recently printed a quotation from the Farm Journal pointing out the many products that come in from other lands, duty free, and sold in this nation in direct competition with the products of the American farmer. Proper tariff adjustments can be extremely helpful to agriculture and it is highly gratifying to know that Hoover understands this. In making these statements, he seconds the stand taken by Senators Peter Norbeck and William H. McMaster, of South Dakota, who have long held that tariff revision was an important matter in bringing equity to the farmers.

But Hoover does not stop there. He discusses increased transportation charges and frankly urges the development of inland waterways, including the Great Lakes-Atlantic route. "These improvements," Hoover explains, "would mean so large an increment in farmers' prices as to warrant their construction many times over. There is no more vital method of farm relief."—Sioux Falls Argus-Leader.

SHAKESPEARE, BEST SELLER.

A curious assortment of facts regarding the sale of books has recently appeared in the news columns. Perhaps the most remarkable is that Shakespeare leads even the industrious and popular Edgar Wallace as a best seller in England. Of the 175,000 books "in print" there, 864 are by or about Shakespeare. Dickens is second with 318, Scott third with 312, Stevenson fourth with 293. The others in order are: Thackeray, 162; Wells, 112; Kingsley, 105; Edgar Wallace, ninety-one, and Kipling, eighty-one.

The American Booksellers' association reports that Americans spent only half as much for books in the first six months of the present year as they spent for candy, and is conducting an investigation to determine why the figures on sales show an increase of only one per cent. in 1928 over the first half of 1927. The association is also trying to ascertain why Germany, with a population one-third that of the United States, publishes three times as many titles annually.

It has frequently been contended that books cost too much in this country and that a great increase in sales would be registered if they were published with paper covers, as in France, at a correspondingly lower rate. Yet one American book which was published at fifty cents has recently been brought out in a two dollar edition at the request of numerous readers who informed the publishers that they did not want cheap books.

Speaking recently at the Institute Francais in London, Hugh Walpole said that unless a piece of literature was also a piece of news, like a crime or a divorce, it got no public recognition at all. Yet Shakespeare is a best seller, and one could hardly call Shakespeare news.—New York Herald Tribune.

Shakespeare.

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS.

The effort to find out who "Shakespeare" really was goes on intermittently, but unpromisingly. The latest addition to the Stratford legend comes from France, where an ingenious professor of the College de France, Abel Lefranc has put forth the hypothesis that the author of "Hamlet"—more pertinently to M. Lefranc's theme, the author of "Love's Labors Lost"—instead of passing his whole life in England, lived long in France, besides visiting other European countries.

It is affirmed that M. Lefranc is about to publish, in three volumes, an exhibit of the evidence on which he founds his theory that the great dramatist lived intimately at the court of Navarre in the time of the famous Marguerite de Valois. Those who have read the sol-disant revelations that Mrs. Gallup and others have persuaded themselves that they can decipher in the cryptograms said to be contained both in the Shakespearean plays and in Francis Bacon's works, will at once recall the fact that Bacon is there represented as describing this very intimacy at the court of Navarre as an important part of his own experience when he lived in France—as it is known, historically, that he did.

It could, then, be said in reply to M. Lefranc's hypothesis that though his facts may be correct he has mistaken his man—it was not William Shakespeare, the ignorant and untravelled rustic of Stratford, who was intimate with court life in France, but Francis Bacon, the greatest scholar and courtier of his age. The Baconians could make effective use of this in defending their hypothesis that Bacon was the real author of the plays.

Nothing seems able to down the doubt hanging over the personality of the author of those works, so matchless in their verbal power, though their claim to philosophical depth may lie more open to cavil. They dress the philosophy of common sense in royal robes of diction, and throw about it an atmosphere of transforming magic. The same fascination envelops the verbal expression given in the plays to the commonest human thoughts and emotions and the everyday impressions of nature.

No one can form a valuable opinion about the controversy over the personality and actual history of the man we knew as Shakespeare without an unprejudiced reading of the evidence and the arguments produced by the many writers on both sides, combined with a thoughtful study of the plays and poems themselves. There are enormous "vested interests" in the Shakespeare legend as it stands, which should be considered by every sincere investigator of the question, for they color everything that is said on the subject in the "orthodox" circles, which include the majority of teachers of literature in the schools. The inertia of "learning" is prodigious.

M. Lefranc's revelations, if he has any, are not in the least necessary in order to convince a thoughtful reader of any of the great Shakespearian tragedies, comedies or histories, that the man who wrote them was in his own person familiarly acquainted with the manners of courts, kings and queens, as well as with the life and thoughts of his time, and the life and thoughts of classic times recorded in history and literature; and that he had, moreover, a highly-cultivated mind, abreast with the best intellects and the best achievements of his day. The unfortunate thing is that the most authentic information that scholars have been able to discover concerning the Willia. Shakespeare of Stratford is inconsistent with this picture.—Copyright, 1928, International Feature Service, Inc.

The Bazaars of Tunis.

BY TEMPLE MANNING.

The "Souks," or bazaars of Tunis form a tiny city within a city. For blocks, arched roofs cover hundreds of hole-in-the wall shops where articles from all points of the compass are dispensed by gowned and fez-crowned merchants.

Rare perfumes in all stages of manufacture are sold. Bright Damascene swords, gold and silver decorated weapons, leather goods, copper and brass, jewels, cotton cloth and Oriental rugs of fine texture and odd designs, all dazzle the eye of the tourist and weaken the purse.

Through the narrow streets where daylight filters through crevices overhead, a steady stream of humanity jostles, bargains, buys and moves on. It is an unending procession of swarthy-skinned Arabs, French and Italian settlers, soldiers, donkey boys, gypsies, and tourists from America and England.

But narrow as the streets are, there is a tomb built at one intersection that blocks all traffic. It is the resting place of a holy man and can not be disturbed. Before his demise, this Moslem requested that his body be placed on a donkey. Wherever the animal made his first stop was to be the site of his tomb. Strangely enough, it was at the most congested corner that the perverse beast halted.

Years later the newly-arrived French authorities ordered the removal of the holy man's grave. A near-revolution by the populace was avoided when the French quickly rescinded the order. — Copyright, 1928, Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. M'INTYRE.

New York, Aug. 25 — The pick of artist models now make $10 a day although the average is around seven dollars a day. For many years they were paid fifty cents an hour. The job has proved an entering wedge for the stage and screen—and successful marriage.

When artists such as Harrison Fisher and Neysa McMein select a model whose beauty is spread on canvas and later on the magazine covers she is more than likely "made." Beauty show producers and cinema magnates watch for new models to glorify.

Nearly all the famous show girls who strutted across stage in magnificent costumes during the past decade began as models. The manikins employed in the dressmaking salons are paid from $35 to $75 a week. Facial beauty is not so important. The figure and walk count.

The majority of models come from American villages. Despite extravagant stories of high-jinks in the studios, the bulk of the girls are not intent upon a stage or screen career or capturing an aging Wall Street broker with a palace on the Hudson and a sclerosed liver.

They pose as models to pay their way through school or to pursue knowledge for a profession. Most of them live at art clubs or semi-philanthropic institutions where all lights are out at 11 o'clock and the front door locked and barred shortly thereafter.

Greenwich Village, of course, has its quota of high-flying models who use the calling merely as a respectable veneer to hide the fast pace. They are really "call girls" who respond to a summons from dubious establishments to aid in entertaining visiting buyers.

Such as these often give the business a false status. There are several reputable agencies which supply models of every type for a small fee. While several models have married famous artists, the attitude toward them is generally as impersonal as it is toward their paints and brushes.

Broadway's oldest flapper is a devoted customer of the night clubs. She is the widow of a retired army officer, wears the latest Parisian frocks, dances gracefully, smokes cigarets—and—shades of Fanny Ward—has a baby lisp. Doubtless, a gland idea!

Then there is another devoted night clubber, a chic looking lady who seems no more than eighteen. A lorgnette she uses seems quite out of place. She is squired about by a meek-looking collegiate who is her grandson. Indeed, there are many Fanny Wards in this and other cities. They have merely not been publicized.

The fact is the maximum amount of happiness for the individual can only come when he uses whatever ability he has in such a way as to be of the greatest service to the greatest possible number.

Raskob, a figure of national prominence, now chairman of the Democratic national committee, says he is out to "free the nation from the curse of prohibition." Mr. Raskob is undoubtedly sincere. His record is such as to inspire confidence in his ability and character. But there are just as good and sincere men who do not think prohibition is a curse. They think intoxicating liquor, handled in any manner, under any form of government, is a curse. Who is right?

Intelligent men and women, in this day of more widely distributed education, are not sure about anything. They have a right to think what they please, and if they have courage they will act in accordance with their best thought. But we must not be sure about things until we have heard and examined all sides and all possible evidence. Above all, public problems in America need a thoughtful approach.

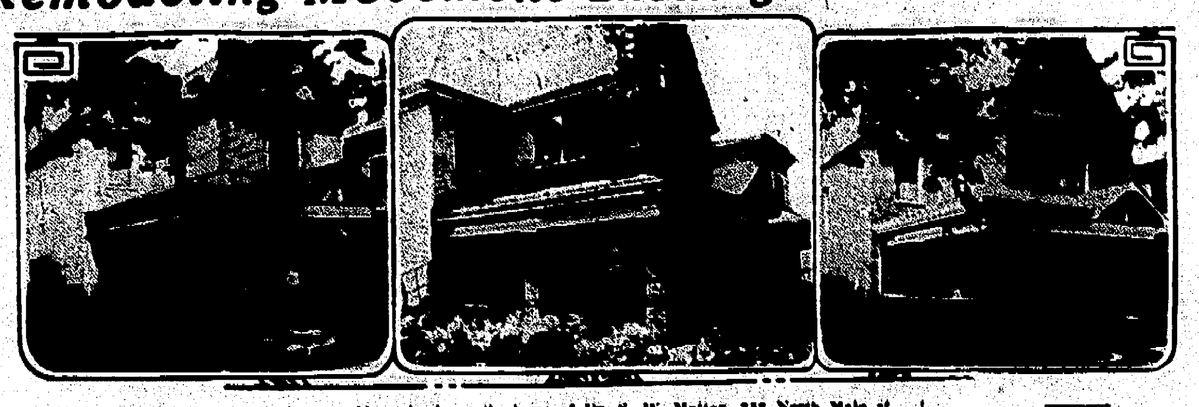
MODERNIZING OF OLD HOMES INCREASING

Remodeling Movement Showing Results in Marion



Above is shown the home of Dr. S. W. Maltox, 238 North Main st., first, with remodeling work just starting, second, during process of being modernized, and third, after completion. The work was done by Barn Bros., using materials principally supplied by C. W. Leffler & Son.

Dwellings Completely Transformed by Process of Alteration

THAT the modernizing of old homes movement has reached Marion is evident from the group of photographs shown above.

The exterior of this home, built a number of years ago, was completely changed by a new outside covering of face brick.

It is also very practical to alter the lines and interiors of houses during the modernizing process. New rooms, porches or other features are easily added to increase the convenience and comfort.

There are two reasons for modernizing old homes:

1. Obsolescence annually claims an almost unbelievable toll in the reduction of real estate values. What is new today, as building styles go, may next year be out-of-date. Ten years later it will almost assuredly be a back number, reducing the sales value of the new dwelling.

2. New buildings compete with old ones on the rental market. Each season changes in construction, although slight, give them that much precedence over existing homes. And a more increasingly discriminating public has a constant weather-eye for all the niceties that make for comfort and convenience.

Easily Financed.

Financing is a simple matter, as building and loan associations loan money on good risks of this kind as readily as they do on new construction.

In one central western city of 50,000 there has been spent in the last two years, $500,000 to make old homes new. This does not mean that that city had a larger percentage of old homes but that the home owners have a strong realization of the advantages of keeping up-to-date.

Modernization is of special value as applied to close-in or uptown homes for they must be modern to compete with cheaper land values in the outskirts and to return a good income, due to higher taxation. It prevents as well the spreading of the city to too great an extent and the lowering of uptown investments.

The contractors concerned in this modernization will be glad to offer plans, suggestions and estimates to those who are interested in rebuilding homes.

Local Market Sales Show Increase During Past Week

An increase was recorded in the sale of fruits and vegetables on the local market during the last week, according to Marion dealers. Cooler weather is held responsible for the additional sales.

While fruits of every kind are more in demand, vegetables, such as head lettuce, leaf lettuce, and celery have not sold as well as tomatoes, cucumbers and potatotes. Demand for sweet corn did not increase during the week and, with the market flooded, prices tumbled. A more plentiful supply of tomatoes also brought a decline in price. Tomatoes, however, continue to be in demand.

Berries About Gone

The week saw the gradual disappearance of blackberries and the first appearances of pumpkins on local markets. After today blackberries are expected to be a thing of the past on Marion produce counters until next season. Those on sale today were small and sold slowly. Pumpkins were seen during the latter part of the week but an abundant supply probably will not arrive until the first week in September, local dealers said today. Those on sale this week were priced at 25 and 30 cents each.

Sale of peaches increased during the latter part of the week, due probably to the change in temperature. They were selling for $2 and $2.25 a bushel.

The market is expected to be replenished next week with a larger supply.

Plums Sell Readily

Homegrown plums went rapidly the latter part of the week. They are selling at three pounds for 25 cents, a slight decline from the price recorded a week ago. California plums sold two pounds for 25 cents.

There was but little change in the majority of prices on meats and provisions during the week. The grain market also remained comparatively steady.

CONSTRUCTION COSTS SHOW LITTLE CHANGE

Stabilized Condition Indicated in Report of Situation in U. S.

Washington, Aug. 25—The cost of construction has remained unchanged during recent weeks, according to statistics just compiled by the Associated General Contractors of America. The absence of fluctuation in the average of costs reported from the principal construction centers of the country indicates continuance of a stabilized condition that has prevailed since the opening of the present year.

The average of construction costs has changed in position only twice since last November. It dropped slightly in March and rose during June to assume virtually the same plane it previously had occupied. Records for post-war years show no corresponding instance of stability.

The cost average for the first seven months of this year is slightly below the average indicated for the same period in 1927, drawing close to the mark reported for the entire year of 1925.

The average of prices paid for basic construction materials now occupies exactly the same level it held when the current year opened. During the first seven months of 1927, this average changed its level five times; it has moved its level mark only twice during the corresponding period of 1928.

A continuance of the stability in wages also is noted, as records for the latest weeks fail to indicate a change from the place held by the wage average during June. Only two changes in the trend of the wage average have been noted since January, 1927.

BUILDING PERMITS REACH HIGH MARK

Two Office Buildings, Church, Seven Dwellings in This Week's List

Seventeen building permits for construction work estimated at $80,400 were issued by City Clerk S. H. Keller during the last week, according to a report today. This was the largest number of permits to be issued for a single week for some time, records show.

Permits for the construction of two office buildings, a church and seven dwellings were included among those issued. Another permit provided for the remodeling of Butler's store, 105 West Center st. The remainder were issued for the building of garages and remodeling work on homes.

Two Office Buildings.

The two office buildings to be erected will be located on Rose st. and West Center st., respectively. The first, a $5,000 brick structure, will be occupied by the offices of the General Excavator Co. The second, being constructed by Anna M. Fairbanks and Ida B. Kraus at 526 West Center street, will be occupied by tenants. It is being erected on the site of the old Nordica hotel.

J. P. Huling, 201 Edgewood drive, received three permits for the construction of as many dwellings on Henry st. Each home is to cost $1,500, according to estimates. C. A. Curtis received permits to build two $3,000 dwellings and two garages on East Walnut st.

New Church Planned.

A new Mt. Zion Baptist church is to be erected on Scantlebury st. at a cost of $4,000, according to a permit issued to the Rev. J. C. Canada, pastor of the church.

Lulu A. Gelbaugh plans to build a bungalow at Cleveland av. and Superior sts., at a cost of $5,000, records show.

Clyde C. Smith, 554 Girard av., and W. S. Burton, 180 John st., have taken out permits to build garages. H. H. Geiger, of Chatfield, O., will remodel a garage on the premises of 126 Washington st., while J. F. Stengle, 699 Silver st., and Lewis and Anna M. Kraft, 323 South State st., also plan remodeling work on their property.

A. D. Mitchell, 198 West Church st., took out a permit during the week for the construction of a porch to his home. The work is estimated at $150.

Just Things

BY EDNA B. DUTTON

SHOWING OFF

Did you ever notice how honest-to-goodness good your own home town looks to you when you are showing it off to visitors? And right now particularly, you can spend plenty of time right down on West Center st. I own up to getting positively chesty during the two hours I had a couple of out-of-town guests in tow, pointing out the interesting features of our fair city. And when the guests began to ask questions, well a pouter pigeon looked like a flat tire. In fact I could scarcely wait until they had finished to start my spiel. Now if you haven't experienced this, take my advices and invite some of the relatives or friends who haven't been in Marion for a couple of dne moons, for a visit, and try it out. It may be a trifle hard on them but you'll get kick enough of it to more than repay you for the free feeds and lodging.

FLABBERGASTED

Newspaper folks are keen, we admit it, but once in a while we get cornered even to the point of becoming flabbergasted. This one reached our office on our sport editor who took his vacation in the early summer. It seems he visited some place where there was a pretty moon, nice girl, romantic setting 'n everything and he persuaded said maiden to go walking with him. Suddenly she disengaged herself from his supporting arm and in response to his questioning and somewhat injured gaze, pulled that old, yet ever new one, "if my mother should see me, how would I ever explain?" Somewhat disturbed, but rallying to the cause he replied, "you might say I was your brother."

• • •

CIRCUS PARADES

The crowning glory of the summer was the street parade the Wild West show put on yesterday, to my way of thinking. As far as I am concerned a circus without a parade is like cake without the frosting or lemonade without the lemon. It was really a treat. In spite of the fact the Indians didn't look the least bit scared, the ponies were tame and the dogs looked like anything but the kind one had pictured as roaming the wilds in quest of the meager necessities of life and at the end of a well spent existence going to the happy hunting ground with their lord and master. Anyway it was a good parade and a good show. One of our girl reporters rode with the Vanquished Americans in the old stage coach and got quite a thrill out of it. Her chief complaint was that they were not inclined to be very communicative, even under pressure. It was their loss however for she said had they shown the least bit of interest she fully intended to tell them all about how nearly she came to having an operation for appendicitis.

CHAPTER FORTY-ONE

EMILY was astonished at how little she missed Kingdon Coles.

"So I didn't even like him much," she told herself. "I was flattered, maybe. And that would be a sad thing to build a marriage on—vanity— even if it had been different. I suppose everything that happens is for the best."

Still the experience coming to her through him was not a pleasant one. She accepted it and was grateful but it left her rather subdued. She felt, someway as if she had grown up suddenly because of it.

Election day drew near and feeling ran high in Lyall but she watched it as one who stands upon a bank looks at the current of a turbulent river. Though Kitten went here and there to hear campaign speeches Emily couldn't stir her own interest. Once when she had an errand at the yacht club and Kent was making an address in the ball-room she didn't even stop to listen.

And she wouldn't vote.

"It's your duty, my dear," Frances told her. "Every citizen owes that much to the government."

"One vote won't make any difference. Besides it doesn't matter much who gets in, does it?"

Election night the town went wild. There was a parade in which women joined with horns and tin pans and torches. They marched up and down the River road and out Main st., and Emily heard their shouts and saw the red exciting lights of their flares far down the hill.

But she went to bed early without telephoning for the returns.

It occurred to her, as she stood before the mirror, that she was growing rather thin. And her cheeks were not as pink as they had been.

She heard, in the morning, that Kent was elected. A tingle shot through her in spite of her lassitude. "He deserves everything," she told herself. "No one so fine."

But she did not clip the interview in which he thanked the voters. She read it, smiling and proud, but the thought of cutting it from the newspaper did not for some reason move her. Perhaps the Kingdon Coles episode made her feel that she must put away some of her enthusiasm. At any rate she wrapped up the Japanese box that evening, and stored it in the attic, together with the blue dress of sad memory and the now outdated calendar Frances had given her.

In the interview Kent was quoted as saying things about a "housecleaning policy." The article in the Item declared that 20 or more speakeasies in th county, ranging all the way from informal bars at the back of obscure business places to elaborate road-houses, must prepare to close.

Frances smiled at this. "It looks as if the judge had created a Frankenstein," she remarked.

Once again snow lay, like a mantle of ermine upon Lyall. For a brief time the town awoke to color as merchants hung their stores with green and red and lights of many hues were strung through Main st.

Every window, on the hill as on the river road, held an evergreen wreath and candles were set ablaze to illumine the way of the new-born Christ child.

Waifs flitted from street to street, their voices blending graciously in "Silent Night." And all the bells flung ecstasy into the Christmas sky.

The holiday was celebrated quietly in the Day home. Greens carried to the grave up the hill; little fancy cakes and Jasmine tea; mysterious packages tied with bright ribbon passed about, opened with exclamations of delight.

Frances invited Emily to a party in the evening but she declined. She had no wish to go out these days.

Shortly it was the first of the year and the papers began to refer to the new district attorney Mr. Kent Rossiter. Emily pored over the columns.

Kent, it appeared, had started right out to make good on his promise of political house-cleaning. He began by directing a raid on a road-house up the state highway one night.

This resulted in the arrest of the proprietor and the place's closed doors.

And in a statement which the Item primed with a flourish he declared it to be only the beginning.

Presently the Star commenced to refer to him as "Galahad." Or, more often, as "Gal" Rossiter.

Meditating upon this in an idle hour at the shop, Emily saw the two who had talked so forcefully to the Judge the day the Item first proposed Kent for office meet and pass up the stairs across the street.

"Who are they, Frances?"

"Henchmen. I suppose they're worried now the Frankenstein shows signs of turning."

"You mean about the roadhouse? Didn't they want it closed?"

Frances looked at her queerly and didn't answer.

Marty wandered over later and leaned his elbows on a bolt of yellow silk, gazing at it in a puzzled way. Emily ventured to mention the raid.

"It must have been exciting. Kent is doing just what he promised."

"And riding for a fall. There's a limit to the grand-stand stuff." Still young, Marty was; he had yet to learn silence.

"But the district attorney is expected to enforce the law, isn't he?"

"So's your Aunt Kate." With that he drifted away, leaving her thoughtful.

Kent had done what was right and now Marty, speaking for the ring, said he was "riding for a fall." Kent had declared he was going on in the way he had begun and they were determined he should not.

She could not guess at the reason behind this; she was completely ignorant of political intrigue. But she was discerning enough to recognize treachery and honest enough to feel outraged.

Would Kent know about it? Probably he trusted these men who were ready to play him false.

It seemed to her Kent should be warned. She might write him a note. A bold thing, writing to him, but she could do that.

Yet when she sat down at her desk she was overwhelmed with shyness. Kent might laugh at her; he might believe she thought he didn't know his job. Probably he'd forgotten her by this time; he'd wonder who one might be signing herself "Emily Day."

She laid down the pen.

Meditations of a Married Woman

BY HELEN ROWLAND

WHAT WOMEN DON'T TELL

Some girls are hard to kiss, some are easily kissed, and some are positively HELPFUL!

• • •

Even a stormy married life, with all its vicissitudes, is less of a bore than the dead calm of placid, uneventful single blessedness.

• • •

If you are a man, never TRY to understand a woman; just keep perfectly quiet and wait. Sooner or later she'll spill over and tell you all about herself—or burst!

• • •

The girl who can balance herself on the very fine line between piquing a man's jealousy and puncturing his faith, has found the perfect "combination" for holding his interest as long as she cares to.

• • •

It takes six or seven cocktails for a man to reach that stage of complete self-confidence where he feels cocksure that his wife won't suspect that he's had a drink.

• • •

The average society marriage appears to be a "cut-in" affair in which a woman is whirled right out of one man's arms into another's—and another's—and another's!

• • •

It's the plain, undecorative man, like the plain, substantial kitchen clock, that can usually be most depended on. The ornamental drawing room variety are always either fast, uncertain, or running down.

• • •

It is the supreme test of a man's violent infatuation when he forgets his fresh sunburn and welcomes a woman's petting with a smile.

• • •

Some girls stay single because of choice—and some because of the lack of choice.

• • •

As a "hitching-post," the altar-rail seems to have lost its popularity and outworn its reliability.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

SATURDAY. Me and Jubilee always try to be glad when Saturday comes along. Because it is one day that we are glad to see when school is taken it. Saturday is the best day of the week, and the only day almost that a fella can go swimming. So I try to be glad for Saturday even when it is vacation time. It was dry again today but there was lots of water lying around, and we didn't talk of anything in the barn but the little old man with the Arkansaw whiskers that thought he had lost his eye, and how funny his eye looked squinting up at us when Younies pulled the clay away. When we got to where his auto had turned over it was gone, but we could see the marks in the mud where it had lit. When the water has dried off we are going to look for the man's face in the mud where he came down when he thought his eye was gone.

Banty said if we would come out to his cousin Willie Braley with us he would go somewheres with us sometime. He had to go out there to get a dress pattern for his mother. So we all thought we might as well. They have got a big barn, and Willie's father was out working on the farm somewhere and Willie and his sister was down at a water-hole back of the barn with pinhooks fishing for sunfish, and the hole was so full of them that it seemed to be crowded. We made some more pinhooks and all of us caught a lot of them. Then Willie went in the house and came out with a basket full of muskmelons and a carving knife, and he took the finest melon and said, "I will begin with the best ones and roll them down the path between those white boxes and those that get them can keep them till each have got one. As soon as anyone gets one he must stop playing. So he rolled a big one and we all started for it, but Suring and Niba was ahead of all of us, and they both grabbed for it and fell down and rolled over and knocked one of the white boxes crooked, and we were all in amongst them, and they were full of bees, and they began to work it on us, and everyone started for the bushes and we all overshot how it had gotten a lot of bee out in with us and Willie and his mother and daisy all got stung, and we liked to have the bees to prove, and Willie's father came running and then we had to run the bees in the barn, and we all went in the house and Willie's mother put some [illegible] on our stings and we had to [illegible] Willie. We were so sorry we all went home [illegible] and Willie's father came [illegible] and they were [illegible] and then the bees [illegible] and we had to [illegible] and [illegible] and [illegible] and
